House Group Rejects Legal Wine Bill by 14 to 9 Vote

Thinks Lea Measure Would Violate Eighteenth Amendment
SENATORS ALSO ACT
Agreement Reached on Federal Protection For Dry States

Washington—(P)—The house today means the alcoholic content in naturally fermented wines was in violation of the spirit of the 18th amendment. He felt the legalization of light wines "would be held unconstitutional."

He hoped to file with the house by tonight the formal committee report on the beer bill which is to be considered in the house next Tuesday.

After two days discussion, a committee of the senate headed by Blaine of Wisconsin tentatively approved the following language to protect dry states wanting to stay dry:

Language of Clause
"The transportation or importation into any state, territory or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein, of intoxicating liquors, in violation of the laws thereof, is hereby prohibited."

The committee also discussed the possibility of including language to prevent return of the saloon, but the committee members said little progress had been made in this direction.

Party lines divided on the wine vote in the house committee.

Notified of the committee's action, Representative Lea (D., Calif.), head of the wine bloc, said: "Naturally we are disappointed. We asked for modification of the Volstead law only to the extent permissible under the eighteenth amendment, and it is a pity that the Democratic platform, in favor of modification not only as to beer but as to other liquors permissible under the eighteenth amendment."

He planned to confer with members of the California delegation before determining upon the next move.

As to offering an amendment to the beer bill when it reaches the floor of the house next week, he said: "There are parliamentary technicalities that could prevent such action."

Strive to Avert Judd Execution

Attorneys for Murderess Base Plea on Legal Technicalities

Florence, Ariz.—(P)—Attorneys are attempting through legal technicalities to save Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, Arizona trunk murderer, from the gallows.

Today the woman's husband, Dr. William C. Judd, had not yet made public what he said was the "true story" of the slaying of Mrs. Agnes Aron LeRoy and Miss Hadvig Samuelson in Phoenix, Oct. 17, 1931.

Dr. Judd, the Rev. H. J. McKinnell, father of the condemned woman, and attorneys conferred for three hours yesterday at the state prison. Attorneys then announced an immediate application would be made for a writ of habeas corpus in the United States District court, which may become the basis for an attempt to carry the case to the United States Supreme court.

Application for the writ will allege that when the state supreme court denied Mrs. Judd a new trial and set Feb. 17 as the date of execution, a superior court judge sat on the supreme bench, substituting for Chief Justice A. G. McAlester, who was ill, and that this violated constitutional provisions.

Find 18 Seed Pearls

West Hartford, Conn.—(P)—Vincenzo W. Jones got 18 seed pearls with an oyster cocktail at a tea room. One oyster yielded all the pearls.

Ousted Treasurer Of Sawyer County Cleared by Jury

Woman Is Found Not Guilty of Embezzling Nearly $4,600

Hayward, Wis.—(P)—Mrs. Ola F. Frets, who was ousted as treasurer of Sawyer county last June on charges of embezzling nearly $4,600 of county funds, was acquitted by a circuit court jury here today.

The jury reported its verdict to Judge James Wickham at 11:30 a. m. There was a large courtroom crowd, many of those present having attended all sessions of the two day trial.

Two members of the Sawyer county board filed charges against Mrs. Frets. She was serving her sixth term as county treasurer when the board voted her out of office.

Evidence submitted by the state at the trial included the report of W. A. Gunderson, auditor of the Wisconsin Tax commission, showing deficits in the treasurer's accounts totaling $4,570.26 during the three years preceding her removal.

Mrs. Frets testified she was unable to explain the shortages, but said they might have resulted from faulty school tax adjustments with towns. She also declared her office was entered and rifled three times in recent years, but that members of the county board did not cooperate in efforts to protect county funds.

A. W. McCloud of Eau Claire, special prosecutor, assisted District Attorney Jens Jorgensen in presenting the state's case. Attorney Glenn Douglas of Spooner, represented Mrs. Frets.

Girl Identifies Gelsi In Presti Slaying Case

Madison—(P)—Miss Sandra Livingston, 21, of Milwaukee, who rode in the car in which Andrew Presti was kidnapped and slain last July 5 today identified Joe Gelsi of Elmira, N. Y., as the "boss" to whom the body of Presti was delivered at Janesville a short time after he was killed.

Miss Livingston, sweetheart of one of the two men whom the state claims Gelsi hired to put Presti out of the way took the witness stand in circuit court about an hour before the noon recess. She was to resume her testimony this afternoon.

Two State Senators to Ask for Investigations

Madison—(P)—State Senator Bernhard Gettelman of Milwaukee, would like to know why the number of state oil inspectors has increased while the sale of gasoline has been reduced. He said he will ask an inquiry as soon as the legislature meets.

Senator Philip Nelson of Maple, in Milwaukee yesterday, said he would ask for an investigation of activities of the grain and warehouse commission. And before the legislature meets both senators will scrutinize payrolls of other boards and commissions, they said.

Consider Novel Proposal to End Debt Controversy

Washington—(P)—A novel plan for transferring foreign war debts to private hands to remove them from politics is receiving consideration in some senate and administration circles.

The proposal, which has gone no further than discussion though it has some influential sponsors, provides for funding the debts by the issue of bonds on the debtor countries to holders of American Liberty bonds.

Under the plan the holder of a $1,000 American Liberty bond would, for instance, surrender his certificate for a British bond of the same amount drawing an interest rate of perhaps 4 1/2 per cent.

The British bond would be guaranteed by the American government, so the American investor would have the same security as before.

Those sponsoring the proposal advance it as one way of settling the debt question for good and all. They hold that once the debts were in private hands agitation for cancellation or revision would cease.

But they concede that to get debtors to agree it would be necessary to make some concession such as scaling down the principal due.

Silver Foxes Taken by Three Armed Bandits

Winnebago County Farmer And Family Held Captive by Marauders
LOOT WORTH $2,500
14 Pairs of Breeding Animals Carried Away In Automobile

Oshkosh—(P)—Holding a Winnebago county farmer and his family captive in their home for an hour and a half, three armed bandits Thursday evening escaped with 14 pairs of silver foxes, used for breeding purposes, valued at $2,500.

The robbery occurred at the A. H. Matteffs farm, about two and a half miles south of the city on Highway 41. With no telephone in the house, it was not until some time after the bandits had fled that Matteffs was able to notify Winnebago county authorities from a telephone at a neighbor's home.

Failing to heed his wife's advice not to admit strangers to the home, Matteffs opened his door about 7:15 to be confronted with a shotgun and two pistols in the hands of three forbidding-looking individuals, one of whom was masked with a handkerchief, and the other two with their faces partially concealed in coats collars.

The farmer and his two sons, Herbert, a young man, and Norman, a boy, were securely tied with insulated wire the fox-thieves brought with them. Mrs. Matteffs was not tied, but the bandit with the shotgun remained in the house while the other two men were loading the foxes into a motor vehicle. Matteffs was unable to give any indication as to the method of transportation used other than the fact that he heard an engine.

Thorough search also was made of the house, but several articles of value were undiscovered. It was believed the men were looking for pelts, but Matteffs had sold his furs a short time previously. The gunmen remained on the premises until nearly 9 o'clock, the loss of Matteffs is not covered by insurance.

Taylor Case Is Expected to Go To Jurors Today

Arguments Start This Afternoon in Green Bay Bank Trial

Milwaukee—(P)—"Whether Joseph H. Taylor, 73-year-old Green Bay banker is guilty of misappropriating the funds of the McCartney National bank, of which he was president, will lie for determination, this afternoon in the hands of a federal court jury.

"Testimony was concluded just before the noon recess, which was delayed until 12:15 to permit Taylor, who occupied the stand all morning to complete his testimony. Arguments were to start at 1:45 p. m., and the jury will be charged probably about two hours later.

"Defense risks," announced Attorney James H. McGillion, "No rebuttal," stated James A. Wharton, special government prosecutor.

The jury was excused, and Judge F. A. Geiger called the attorneys together for instructions and argument. He intimated that arguments would have to be limited largely to the question of intent to defraud, since the fact of misappropriation was established by the evidence.

Taylor Criticized
The defendant's crediting himself with money from the bank's funds, in anticipation of the acceptance of notes sent to other banks, was scored by the court, despite Mr. McGillion's argument that it was common banking practice.

"It is conversion, through an instrument which has no standing except here," he declared.

In pursuance of this thought, Mr. Wharton, on cross-examination, had asked Taylor whether a letter from the Door County State bank, stating that that institution was borrowing very heavily and was compelled to call in its loans, were not notice that further notes from him would not be accepted.

"Not necessarily," he replied, "that might indicate a very temporary condition, which would be changed very materially a short time later."

Suit Started in Capital City Case

State Attempts to Collect $73,810 Due in Bonds And Coupons

Madison—(P)—Contending the defunct City Bank of Madison, and Thomas Herreid, acting banking commissioner, collected $73,810 in bonds and coupons for the state but never turned over the money or gave the state unconditional credit, counsel for the state yesterday started suit for the amount in circuit court.

The action was started by Attorney-General John Reynolds and Special Counsel Benjamin Poss, Milwaukee. The complaint charges that the state treasurer delivered bonds and coupons to the bank for collection Oct. 15, 1931.

It further states that the total amount was believed collected by the bank and Mr. Herreid, who handled liquidation of the bank's assets. The institution closed Nov. 12, 1931. The state treasurer filed a claim on behalf of the state on Feb. 10, 1932, but Mr. Herreid notified the treasurer that the claim was rejected, the complaint said.

The state is asking for interest at 6 per cent per annum in addition to the principal.

Chinese, Japanese Frown On Conciliation Action

Geneva, Switzerland—(P)—Bearing expressions of disapproval from both Chinese and Japanese, a resolution for conciliation of the dispute between those two countries was sent back today to the drafting committee of the league of nations conciliation commission of nineteen for revision. The task of finding terms acceptable to both parties now appears to be most difficult.

The suit was filed by Murray H. Boyer, hi. wife, Doris, and Felix P. Denis, Washington. Boyer asked $10,000 for injuries and her husband $15,000 for injuries and damage to his automobile. Denis is suing as administrator of the estate on Mina Denis, killed in the collision. He asks damages of $15,000. The complaint charges that Mrs. Schafer was driving on the wrong side of the road.

Wife of Congressman Being Sued for $40,000

Washington—(P)—Mrs. Elsie Schafer, wife of Congressman John C. Schafer of Milwaukee, was named defendant in a $40,000 damage action filed in the District of Columbia Supreme court yesterday. The complaint charges that reckless driving by Mrs. Schafer on Defense highway, between Washington and Annapolis, on June 12, was responsible for an accident in which a woman was killed and several persons were hurt.

The suit was filed by Murray H. Boyer, hi. wife, Doris, and Felix P. Denis, Washington. Boyer asked $10,000 for injuries and her husband $15,000 for injuries and damage to his automobile. Denis is suing as administrator of the estate on Mina Denis, killed in the collision. He asks damages of $15,000. The complaint charges that Mrs. Schafer was driving on the wrong side of the road.

Cold Weather Again Halts Work on Ice Cathedral

Extreme cold weather, which makes it impossible to handle the ice with any degree of safety, and in general slows down the work, again has caused a delay in the opening of the ice cathedral. It was planned to turn on the lights tonight but workmen could not handle the cakes of ice without danger of breakage in the sub-zero weather and opening has been postponed until tomorrow evening. A crew is on the job today completing the roof, but the work is progressing slowly.

Electricians from the Arit-Killorren Electric Co. and the power company will complete installation of the lighting arrangements by tomorrow noon so that there will be nothing to prevent illumination to-morrow evening.

The ice cathedral, erected on Lawrence campus, is a truly beautiful building. It is about 20 feet long by 14 feet wide and nearly 40 tons of ice from the Lutz Ice Co. was required to construct it. The cakes of crystal ice were laid much like stone by a crew of men under the supervision of Edward Bass, Roofing master from the Lohr Garf Lumber Co. was being erected today and the Neon gas star mounting the structure will go up tomorrow morning.

The building can be seen for blocks up and down College-ave and is attracting a great deal of attention. It is believed that people will drive here from miles around to see the building illuminated and also to see the many decorated homes entered in the Appleton Post-Crescent Holiday lighting contest. Appleton should be one of the most brilliantly illuminated cities in the middle west during the holidays.

Hoover Pens New Message On Debt Issue

Renewal of Request for Creation of Commission Is Expected AWAIT PARIS STAND
President's Message May Reach Congress Early Next Week

Washington—(P)—President Hoover is preparing a message to congress on debts expected to be submitted on Monday and probably renewing his request for creation of a debt commission.

There is no present intention on the part of the administration to set up without congressional authority any special commission to go into the problem.

Congressional approval of a new debt commission is most unlikely. Meanwhile, some hope has become apparent for opening of discussions with France on her defaulted payment. This appeared to hinge on the personnel of the new French government now being framed.

A proposed speech on the debts was withheld today by Senator Harrison (D., Miss.), with the announcement to the senate that "certain circumstances have arisen" that made it seem best to defer discussion.

With five nations in default on December payments and two others paying only to gain reconsideration, every sign pointed to early resumption of efforts by the foreign debtors to ease their obligations before the next installments become due in June.

Fireman Injured In Blaze on Farm

Roland Jack, Hortonville, Hurt in Leap Over Barn Door

Leaping over a section of barn door as the granary and cattle barn on the Robert Burns farm, route 1, Hortonville, burned to the ground yesterday morning, Roland Jack, 38, a member of the Hortonville volunteer fire department, was severely injured.

Brought to St. Elizabeth hospital at 4:30 yesterday afternoon, examination revealed Jack was suffering from serious internal injuries. He will be confined to the hospital for some time.

The fire started while drinking cups in the barn were being heated up with a blow torch. The volunteer fire department centered its activities on saving the residence and other buildings.

Cattle and poultry in the barn were removed by neighbors. The loss was estimated at $6,000, which is partially covered by insurance. The structure was one of the largest in the western section of the county.

Man Who Threatened House Faces Hearing

Washington—(P)—Marlin Kemmerer of Allentown, Pa., who attempted several days ago to address the house of representatives at the point of a gun, held for grand jury action today on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. Judge Gus A. Schuldt ordered that Kemmerer be examined mentally meanwhile. Bond was set at $2,500.

Appearing with his brothers, Lee A. and Ernest N. Kemmerer, the defendant pleaded not guilty to the charge.

The charge was based on the complaint of E. J. Roche, who was seated behind Kemmerer when he drew the revolver in the house gallery.

Roche made an effort to interfere and Kemmerer is alleged to have turned the gun on him saying "get back there or I'll let you have it."

Three Men Guilty of Issuing Bad Currency

Duluth, Minn.—(P)—A federal court jury last night convicted John Fugina, Sr., Gilbert, Minn., photographer, and William J. Rosowich and Nick Medich, Elveh, Minn., of counterfeiting $45,580 in currency.

Each defendant was found guilty on five counts, manufacture of bills, possession and passing of bills and possession of counterfeit plates for $10 and $20 bills.

Jurors recommended leniency for Fugina, who turned state's evidence. In 1924 he was convicted of counterfeiting and served four years in Leavenworth penitentiary. Judge Molyneux indicated he will pronounce sentences Monday.

Senate Changes Stand On Freedom for Islands
Amendment to Bill Gives Philippines Independence in 14 Years

Washington—(P)—The senate today approved an amendment to the Hayes-Cutting bill granting independence to the Philippines in 14 years. The decision was by a viva-voce vote.

It came after an amendment previously approved and calling for independence in eight years had been reconsidered and defeated 45 to 31.

On that vote 24 Republicans voted with 31 Democrats to defeat the proposal, while 16 Republicans, 14 Democrats and one Farmer-Labor were on the other side.

The disposal of the amendment for independence in 14 years, paved the way for ultimate passage of the legislation, as it settled a controversy over the heart of the bill.

Senator Cutting (R., N. Mex.), offered the compromise 14-year clause.

This calls for a seven year period of limitations on duty-free imports into the "United States of sugar, coconut oil and hemp products, then five years of island export taxes to help pay off bonded indebtedness, and a plebiscite before the end of the thirteenth year.

Efforts were made to strike out the plebiscite clause and make independence irrevocable.

Cutting argued for retention of the plebiscite clause.

"We ought not force the Philippines to take independence," he said, "if they do not want it after experiencing the disadvantages of tariffs."

"If they find the tariffs or export taxes are too high in the probation period then it is obvious they would not want full tariffs which would be effective" after "America withdraws."

Four Deaths Reported in Milwaukee, Four In Chicago

SOUTH IS INVADED
Many Fires Result From Over-Heating of Dwellings

(By the Associated Press)
Sloping rising temperature with the possibility of snow was predicted for Wisconsin and upper Michigan today by the government weather bureau at Milwaukee.

Brisk southeast to south winds, the bureau announced, will end a two-day siege of sub-zero weather which in Milwaukee was held directly responsible for four deaths. Numerous accidents, fires and much suffering from frostbite resulted in Wisconsin.

Wide Differences
Temperatures ranging all the way from just above zero to 15 below were common throughout the midwest. In Chicago, where four persons were reported dead, squatters and other homeless were hard hit, and emergency welfare workers were spurred on to greater efforts to bring relief to the jobless.

Snow is probable in the west portion of Wisconsin tonight and tomorrow and in the east portion late tonight or tomorrow, Frank H. Coleman, meteorologist, said.

New low temperatures were recorded last night in all sections of Wisconsin. Sub-zero readings reported from cities and towns not included in the weather bureau's charts included:

Mellen and Ladysmith 31; Big Falls 30; Wisconsin Rapids 29; Eau Claire 26; Rhinelander 25; Marshfield 24; Merrill 23; Waupaca 21; Antigo 20; Fond du Lac 15; Janesville 13; Monroe 11; Sheboygan 9.

Records of the weather bureau showed sub-zero readings of 20 at Superior; 18 at Wausau; 20 at La Crosse and at Milwaukee.

Advances of from 10 to 20 degrees from the minimums of last night were predicted during the day. The mercury was expected to go slightly higher than it did yesterday, with the break-up of the cold wave coming on the heels of the snowfall.

A two-room schoolhouse at Lily, 20 miles east of Antigo, burned to the ground late yesterday. Fifty pupils attended the school. Milwaukee firemen answered 53 alarms from 8 a. m. yesterday to 5 a. m. today.

Dickland Also Cold
The chilling rapier of winter stabbed a shivering nation beneath its Mason and Dixon belt today. Zero, keeping relentless grip over the northland and Great Lakes states, widened its realm as it smote the south and east.

Into more than half the 48 states zero had come, and deep down in the old south, far down along the Texas international boundary, even into Louisiana the fringes of the early winter brought freezing temperatures. And the winter solstice yet a week distant!

Zero came to Detroit for the first time in three years. Kentucky's mountains cracked in unaccustomed cold. Louisville felt zero, Grant Lick 10 below, and the mercury in southern Kentucky flirted with the zero line.

While Washington enjoyed relative comfort at 14 above the extreme of 6 below was registered at Frostburg, Md., and 8 below at Thomas, W. Va. Baltimore stayed as high as 16 but its suburbs complained of 2 above.

Pennsylvania and New York were fresh victims of the blast. It was zero at Deal, Pa., where four inches of snow had fallen.

The mountain winds whistled through the bleak reaches of northern New York and at Owlshead, near the Canadian border, someone stepped out long enough to read a thermometer at 26 below.

It was 22 at Sheverson, La., while Arkansas enjoyed its eighth successive day of freezing.

At Lincoln, Neb., it was 12 below, Ashland, 14 below. In Iowa it was from 2 to 1 below, but warmer weather was inbound from Colorado and Montana, where normal temperatures prevailed.

A plane that left Omaha on the transcontinental mail route when the Omaha airport was 12 below rode up to 5,500 feet and Pilot Ralph Johnson discovered it was 28 above zero there. The same condition prevailed between New York and Chicago where United Air lines pilots said it was 23 above at 5,500 and 9 below on the ground at Chicago.

Senate Changes Stand On Freedom for Islands
Amendment to Bill Gives Philippines Independence in 14 Years

Washington—(P)—The senate today approved an amendment to the Hayes-Cutting bill granting independence to the Philippines in 14 years. The decision was by a viva-voce vote.

It came after an amendment previously approved and calling for independence in eight years had been reconsidered and defeated 45 to 31.

On that vote 24 Republicans voted with 31 Democrats to defeat the proposal, while 16 Republicans, 14 Democrats and one Farmer-Labor were on the other side.

The disposal of the amendment for independence in 14 years, paved the way for ultimate passage of the legislation, as it settled a controversy over the heart of the bill.

Senator Cutting (R., N. Mex.), offered the compromise 14-year clause.

Chautemps in Effort to Iron Out Debt Issue

Strives to Form New French Cabinet—Herriot Cold to Offer

Paris—(P)—A momentous conference to find a solution in the American debt crisis was held in the foreign ministry today with Edouard Chautemps, overthrown premier, really presiding and plugging with all his might to find some means of securing reconsideration by the chamber of its decision to postpone payment.

A included Premier-designate Camille Chautemps, Louis Germain-Martin, finance minister under Herriot, Georges Bonnet, former minister of commerce, and others.

Herriot continued his inflexible determination not to enter a new Chautemps cabinet unless France follows in line his draft of a text to Washington and honors its signature pending negotiations.

The presence of the presence of treasury officials—Louis Escallier and Georges Bizot—was that the leaders were studying the gigantic problem of how to get the chamber to authorize payment, the French generally regarding the default as purely technical.

It was understood Herriot and Chautemps are actively communicating with Ambassador Paul Claudet to determine whether the Washington government was able to help France in snatching the problem from the existing deadlock.

Some politicians saw a lessening of tension and a desire to have the question reopened.

Edge Remains Aloof

Walter E. Edge, the American ambassador, continued to maintain his policy of "hands off."

Julien Durand, minister of commerce under Herriot, participated in the latter part of the conference.

A high official said there really was no unresolvable difference between the two countries; but the situation should not be permitted to drag on. He said some solution should be found as soon as possible.

M. Herriot, leaving his office for luncheon, would make no comment on the developments. It was expected, however, that Chautemps would give President Lebrun a definite report regarding the possibility of his forming a cabinet before the end of the day.

The premier-designate conferred with other political leaders. He said the debt situation was dominating the conferences and that he intends to maintain solidarity with M. Herriot, trying to find a way to adjust the debt problem satisfactorily.

"This is not impossible," he said, "the delay does not dispose of the problem."

This was a reference of France's default of the December payment of the loan. Chautemps stressed the word delay.

He indicated that France still feels responsibility for the debts and that the problem is a matter of present conditions preventing payment.

Woman Retracts Sworn Statement

Didn't Know What She Was Signing in Accusing Police of Coercion

Niles Center, Ill. — (P) — When Mrs. Katherine Lenzen, of Niles Center, signed an affidavit charging Milwaukee police with coercing her to sign a statement naming Donald McCauley, Milwaukee carter, as the killer of Arthur E. Millie, the Milwaukee, she did not realize what she was signing, she told an investigator for Gov. La Follette yesterday.

The affidavit had been made the basis of a pardon plea for McCauley, and the governor appointed Harry Southoff of Madison, Wis., former Wisconsin state senator, to investigate the charge. McCauley is serving five to seven years at Waupun on his plea of guilty to a first degree manslaughter charge.

The investigation was begun in Milwaukee Wednesday, resumed yesterday at Kenosha, and moved to Mrs. Lenzen's bedside yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Lenzen did not understand the meaning of the words "coercion" and "duress" when the affidavit was read to her yesterday. When the investigator explained she said:

"There was nothing of that kind. The Milwaukee police wanted to hear my statements. I talked willingly and told the absolute truth."

Millie was shot in May, 1931, after an argument with McCauley over a minor automobile accident in Kenosha-co. Mrs. Lenzen, a passenger with McCauley, was never called to testify because of McCauley's guilty plea.

By Associated Press

Madison — (P) — The Associated Press erroneously reported in an account of the state budget hearing Wednesday, that "the 1931 ton mile tax was enacted by a supreme court decision which exempted all trucks weighing less than six tons empty." The phrase should have read "less than 6,000 pounds empty."

Chamber Gets Referendum on Branch Banking

Special Committee Will be Named to Study Proposals

Copies of the referendum from the U. S. Chamber of Commerce on branch banking have been received here by Appleton Chamber of Commerce and will be studied by a special committee to be named within the next week by George Wettengel, president. Ballots must be returned to the national organization by Jan. 23, 1933.

The referendum is in two parts, the first including a number of recommendations which the national organization wants its branches to keep in mind when studying and voting upon the various issues. The first part is composed of 14 issues, and the second has two.

Part one deals with such matters as denial of discounts to a member bank that engages in operations endangering its solvency or contributing to unsound credit conditions; the composition of the Federal Reserve board; removal of bank officers and directors for unsafe or unsound banking practices; and the requirement of larger capital for a bank to be eligible to membership in the reserve system.

All have a direct bearing upon the national committee's views in relation to safeguarding the development of branch and group banking under federal laws and the administration of the national banking and federal reserve systems.

The following proposals will be voted on in the first part of the referendum:

1. Discounts: Federal reserve banks should be expressly authorized to deny discounts to a member bank of the reserve system on a finding the bank's lending operations are unsound, the denial to be upon conditions, as recommended by the committee.

2. Loans for others: Regulation of member banks in making security loans for the account of others than banks should be left to voluntary collective action of the banks themselves.

3. Removal of officers: The board of directors of each federal reserve bank should be authorized to remove an officer or director responsible in a member bank for continued unsound banking practices, upon conditions, as recommended by the committee.

4. Capital of member banks: Each bank in the future admitted to membership in the reserve system, through organization in the case of a national bank and through application in the case of a state bank, should have capital of at least $50,000.

5. Banking affiliates: Permission should be continued for member banks to have affiliations with non-member banks, under regulation, as recommended by the committee.

6. Security affiliates: Permission should be continued for member banks to have security affiliates, under regulation, as recommended by the committee.

7. Bond departments: The right of member banks to conduct transactions in investment securities on their own account should be maintained.

8. Liquidating corporations: A special agency of the federal government, with capital supplied by the government, reserve banks and member banks, should be created to make possible early dividends to depositors in member banks that have closed, and to liquidate the assets, as recommended by the committee.

9. Opposed to Guarantees: Guarantee of deposits: Deposits in member banks should continue, as at present, to be obligations of the banks without a guarantee system.

10. Open-market operations: Development of agencies of the reserve system for the conduct of open-market operations should be left to administrative determination, as recommended by the committee.

11. Treasury representation: Membership of the secretary of the treasury upon the federal reserve board should be terminated, as recommended by the committee.

12. Federal reserve notes: The provisions of the Glass-Steagall act, permitting reserve banks to issue federal reserve notes with a minimum cover of 40 per cent in gold and the remainder in obligations of the federal government, should be extended for another year, to March 3, 1934, as recommended by the committee.

13. Direct loans: There should be immediate repeal of the emergency power given to reserve banks to make direct loans to business enterprises.

14. National bank notes: There should be legislation requiring early retirement of national bank currency based upon government bonds to which, as an emergency measure, the circulation privilege was given in July, 1932.

Part two are as follows:

1. Branch banking: There should be federal legislation authorizing intra-state branch banking in all states by national banks, of prescribed size and under conditions and restrictions, as recommended by the committee.

2. Group banking: There should be federal legislation providing reg-

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

A FAMOUS VICTORY

The irreconcilables have won the great battle of December fifteenth. They demanded that the debtor governments pay or default and their demand has been met. Some of the debtors have paid and some have defaulted. The United States Treasury has collected about a hundred million dollars. This sum represents not quite two and a half cents on each dollar we are spending this year.

This magnificent result has been achieved at some cost. There is aligned against us the public sentiment of the world. In order to collect this hundred million dollars we have weakened the position of the principal currency used in international trade; the most liberal government on the continent of Europe has been overthrown; the nations on whose collaboration depend the peace and order of the Western World have been humiliated. But we have collected a hundred million dollars.

Now that the great achievement has been written into history, it is too much to ask that the Administration and Congress rest from their labors and take time to reflect, before writing more notes and before issuing more pronouncements? A situation of extreme delicacy, of great complexity, and of profound uncertainty now exists throughout the world. The least that responsible men can do is to pause and try to understand this situation before proceeding further. We have seen in the past few weeks what mischief can result from unconsidered action. We have had the tactless and unconsidered action of the Administration in its first answers which had to be reversed in its second negotiations.

Let us have no more of notes and statements produced without careful examination of the facts and in a mood of irritation and prejudice. When popular sentiment everywhere is inflamed, the first duty of public men is to be exceptionally calm and deliberate, to restrain their own feelings, and to avoid unprofitable debate.

400 Attend Dinner Honoring State's Next Executive

Democrats at Madison Celebrate Victory at Polls on Nov. 8

Madison — (P) — Governor-elect A. G. Schmedeman was acclaimed here last night by his townfolk and fellow Democrats from over the state at a testimonial dinner attended by 400 persons.

Many Republican faces, both Progressive and conservative, were to be seen at the banquet tables and though there were references to the fact that it was a non-political gathering Democratic speakers left no doubt that they were celebrating their first statewide political victory in 40 years.

Responding to wishes for a successful administration during the next two years and to admonitions that he is taking over the reins of state government at a critical time, Mr. Schmedeman briefly pledged fulfillment of his trust as best he can.

He attributed his victory on Nov. 8 to the fact that "we have more independent voters in this state than anywhere else."

"If conditions were normal," he said, "it would be a pleasant thought to look forward to rounding out my political life as governor of this state. I realize the responsibility and the tremendous task that confronts me."

Wants to Fulfill Trust

"I always have felt that public office is a public trust and I hope and pray to God that I will be able to fulfill this trust, to relieve the people from taxation, to cut the cost of government. I hope I shall not disappoint the people of this state."

President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin, one of the honor guests, said there is a great need to "take Wisconsin politics out of politics" and urged Mr. Schmedeman to "drive between and beyond the old conservatism and the old liberalism to what might be called a new realism of politics."

National Committeeman Broughton counseled that the Democrats should run the ship of state themselves and "not rely upon the Republicans for advice."

Up to Democrats

The Democratic party has been given a vote of confidence, he said, it has been placed on trial and for the next two and four years "it is up to us to make good."

Mr. Schmedeman declared that the first task of the Democratic administration would be to see that no one in Wisconsin suffers from want of food, shelter and clothing.

"I suggest that it will be necessary to divert funds from other channels of government to fulfill that first obligation of manhood," he said.

"There are many who seem to think that the people exist for the government. We must change that idea. There are many desirable things in government but under the stress of the times there are many things we must do without."

"The commission was received on Nov. 8 requires us as a party to reduce the cost of government in Wisconsin. We must have a program. Our legislation must originate in the assembly where we have a majority. It will then go to the senate. And if any faction in that body starts playing politics I suggest that Mr. Schmedeman go on the radio and carry the fight to the people as Smith and Roosevelt did."

Committees Set for Next Council Meeting

With practically every committee meeting out of the way, the three days preceding next week's council meeting probably will be unusually quiet. Ordinarily most pre-council committee meetings are held on Monday and Tuesday, but this time most of them were held earlier. The public relief, finance, rebate, street and bridge and public grounds and building committees have already held sessions, leaving only the police and license committee meeting for next week. That body has before it two applications for Class A licenses, one from Philip Van Canten, 605 W. College-ave, and one from Peter Lander, 525 W. College-ave, and a request for pool table license from Pindle and Meertz, 129 E. College-ave.

Bond Program To be Pushed In Congress

Byrnes Sponsors Roosevelt Plan to Meet Improvement Costs

Washington—(P)—The Roosevelt plan sponsored in the senate by Senator Byrnes of South Carolina—to meet huge permanent improvement by long term bond issues is due for early attention in congress.

As a member of the important appropriations committee, Senator Byrnes, an intimate of President-elect Roosevelt, is advancing the legislation and hopes for a decision before the session ends.

This legislation is regarded as one of the key steps in the program of the incoming Democratic administration to balance the treasury books. It would transfer from the taxpayers of today the huge burden of financing permanent improvements.

By meeting these expenditures through long term bond issues, it is the belief of Democratic leaders that much of the short term government paper now in financial channels would be disposed of and the way opened for new credit to industry.

Secretary Mills has withheld final opinion on the proposal but those who have questioned him gained the impression he did not regard it favorably.

With his long service in the house and in the senate on the appropriations committee, Byrnes is being relied on by Governor Roosevelt to map out and put into effect his fiscal program.

Byrnes also is a member of the senate's special economy committee which deals with another subject destined to receive close attention from Mr. Roosevelt.

The South Carolinian traveled with the governor during part of his successful campaign trip and has been in close communication with him and his advisers since the election.

The bill he is sponsoring would set up a fund of $500,000,000 in the treasury, to be provided by bonds, to meet payments of permanent improvements from time to time. Permanent improvements are listed as construction highways, maintenance of rivers and harbors works, construction of public buildings, and improvements of dams and reservoirs.

Franklin-st, where a roof fire started. Chemicals were used to put out the flames, and only slight damage resulted.

Road Contractors Name Medford Man

Elect Officers at Annual Meeting of Organization in Milwaukee

F. G. Pierce, Medford, was elected president of Associated Wisconsin Contractors at the annual convention at Milwaukee yesterday. Representatives of several Appleton contracting firms are attending the conference.

Other officers elected for the coming year are Robert Vickery, Little Sunmoo, vice president; Ben Johnson, Oshkosh, secretary, and Joseph E. Dean, treasurer. The latter two officers were re-elected.

Speakers at yesterday's session were T. J. Pattison, chairman of the highway commission; T. M. Ave-Lallemand, Marquette university instructor in economics, and Charles M. Upham, chairman of the American Road Builders association.

Pattison told the road builders that it is uncertain just how much highway work will be done this year as revenues from the gasoline tax and auto licenses are decreasing. The university instructor discussed causes of the depression and the direct and indirect effects of highway building.

Upham said that between 85 and 91 per cent of the money spent for highway building finds its way to the laborer.

Plan to Inaugurate Air Route Next Month

The Canadian postal administration has announced that regular air-mail service will be inaugurated early next month between Charlottetown and Grindstone Island, according to word received at Appleton postoffice. In order to commemorate the first flights to these distant points, special cachets will be used on letters carried on the initial flights, it was stated. These special cachets will be used only on covers which are sent to the postmasters at Charlottetown, bearing Canadian postage at the air-mail rate, which to the United States is eight cents for the first ounce and 13 cents for each additional ounce or fraction.

Billions in Gold Lost Or Hidden Away, Belief

Washington—(P)—Billions in gold may be in pirates' hideouts, lost mines or sunk with ships, but government experts on such matters can't even guess the total.

One thing they say with assurance—backed up by the official report of Secretary Mills of the treasury—is that as of September, 1932, the United States had in monetary stocks of gold $4,250,000,000 in round figures.

Estimates of other gold in the country, such as rings, bracelets, plate, teeth, optical goods and the like ranged from $1,000,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 with lots of "ifs."

Experts in the mint and the bureau of mines, which between them keep up with the gold situation, explained that just where the gold went in proportionate amounts was a thing no person or agency could answer except by guesswork.

Since 1492, whence records date, the estimated gold production of the world is $22,000,000,000. Of this, the last total for monetary gold checked off $11,670,000,000, leaving slightly more than $10,000,000,000 in other uses or lost. America's production last year was roughly $42,000,000 and the world's $400,000,000.

How much is lost is a question on which one expert said "your guess is as good as mine," observing that every ship that went down had some gold on it, if no more than that in the sailors' watches and chains, besides coin and bullion.

One mint official, who said he didn't want to give a public opinion, had this to say in answer to the question of how much gold might be lost in the seas:

"From the tales you read and hear, it must be billions and billions—but it would cost about as much to find it as it would be worth."

In 1931, the mint said, "$29,157,855 in gold was used in manufacturing other things than money. Rough estimates were that half went into jewelry and the balance into dental supplies, optical goods, fountain pen points or used for scientific purposes.

Only $5,930,780 represented new metal, the other-being gold melted up. Against this, gold coinage at the mint in the first 11 months of 1932 totaled $53,250,000, partly new and partly old.

Scores Japan For Warfare In Manchuria

U. S. Has Three-Fold Interest There, Says Mrs. McMullen

Defense by force of arms is a myth, in the opinion of Mrs. H. Y. McMullen, chairman of the international relations committee of the General Federation of Women's clubs, who spoke on the Sino-Japanese situation before a gathering of about 65 people Thursday night at the Methodist church under the auspices of American Association of University Women, Appleton Woman's club, and Business and Professional Women's club. She went on to show that against modern aggressive warfare methods, such as gas which can penetrate any gas mask dropped from airplanes over entire cities, there can be no defense.

Science, she continued, has outlawed war. The only defense is an agreement between countries, she stated.

In discussing the situation between China and Japan, Mrs. McMullen said that the United States has three interests in Manchuria, political, cultural, and economic, which makes the Manchurian question of paramount importance to this country. The economic interest lies in the fact that Manchuria is a vast new market for machinery for the United States if the "open door" policy is maintained, the speaker went on. She pointed out the fact that commerce between the United States and Asia has crept up a great deal within the last few decades, mentioning in particular the fur and silk trade.

Hold Jap Bonds
United States has a large amount of Japanese bonds, said the speaker, which have dropped in value nearly one half since the Manchurian conflict. This, she pointed out, shows that prosperity cannot exist where there is war, and that there is more hope for peace since men are realizing that prosperity depends on peace. Men are beginning to see, she went on, that only a few special interests profit by war, while the vast majority suffer untold injury.

Cultural interests in Manchuria, said Mrs. McMullen, lie, for the most part, in missions, both Catholic and Protestant, which the people of the United States support. Missionary holdings in China amount to $43,000,000, and in Japan to $8,000,000, she stated.

United States has a political interest in Manchuria, the speaker continued, because of the "open door" policy which states that the territorial integrity of China shall be maintained. This policy was reaffirmed in 1923 and again in 1929 when a treaty was signed in which the various countries united in agreeing not to use force for territorial advancement. In the very face of this agreement, Japan, moved into Mukden and advanced to Shanghai. China appealed to the League of Nations, and a commission was appointed to study the situation.

Military in Power
Mrs. McMullen pointed out that it was the Japanese military group which decided to move into Mukden, and not the Japanese people, who as a whole do not want war with the United States. The military group is now in power, she stated, and their move was prompted by three things: the desire for support of public opinion so that the cutting down of armaments, which was being suggested by newspapers and people, might not go into effect; excitement over posters which were distributed in Japan misrepresenting the facts about the murder of a Japanese government official and telling of a mythical massacre of Koreans by the Chinese; and an explosion on a railroad purported to have been caused by Chinese.

The Lytton report, she said, after investigating the explosion, stated that although it could not say definitely which country had been responsible for the explosion, it had found that China was totally unprepared for the explosion, while Japan was ready and prepared to march into Mukden and take over the area as soon as the explosion happened. Japan, said Mrs. McMullen, claimed that there was a treaty between China and Japan stating there would be no parallel lines in Manchuria, but the Lytton report stated that no such treaty existed. However, she went on, the committee found minutes of a meeting at which China and Japan agreed not to run railroads in competition there.

China Handicapped
China is handicapped by excess population in relation to food supply, lack of transportation facilities, and communism, said the speaker, and the Lytton report recommends that an international committee be formed to organize China for her own benefit.

The situation in Japan, she went on, is one of intense war psychology, the result of the military body being in power. However, she stated, the Japanese people do not want war with the United States. Mrs. McMullen saw the duty of the United States in the support of the Stimson document which states that territorial gains made by force shall not be recognized. She advocated the compelling of United States ammunition factories to cease sending ammunition to Japan, and said that United States would lead the way for other countries that have copied her in other things and would do so in this.

Although the toy theatres offered by the Post-Crescent and Appleton merchants have been available for many weeks, the interest in them still holds. Not only are Appleton children receiving them, but older persons are getting the theatres to send to children in other Wisconsin cities.

The talk by Mrs. McMullen followed a dinner at which members of the three sponsoring organizations were present. The speaker was introduced by Miss Florence Day, president of American Association of University Women. After her lecture proper, Mrs. McMullen answered questions pertaining to the family life of the Japanese, the status of women there, and Japan's political and economic condition.

Prices of Poultry At Unusual Lows, Butchers Report

Turkeys will grace more dinner tables on Christmas day than on Thanksgiving day if present prices remain as they are, Appleton meat men say. Unless turkey raisers withhold their birds from the market until the last minute in an attempt to get higher prices, birds probably will sell at the lowest figures in years.

At the present time they are being quoted on the Chicago market at 15 and 16 cents a pound, compared to 21 cents for top birds at Thanksgiving time.

Prices on Geese, ducks and chickens have remained fairly stable. At the present time best grade geese are quoted at 10 and 12 cents a pound; ducks, 13 cents a pound, and chickens, 10 to 12 cents.

Quotations on dressed poultry on the Chicago market yesterday were as follows:

"Turkeys, young tom, 15 1/2 cents; young hens, 16 cents; old hens, 14 cents; old toms, 13 cents. Ducks, No. 1, 13 cents; geese, 12 pounds and under, 12 cents; capons, seven pounds and up, 20 cents; spring chickens, fancy, 11 cents; heavy hens, 12 cents."

Looted Treasures Startle Brazilians

Rio de Janeiro—(P)—A series of shortages in federal, state and city departments, climaxed by one of 17,000 contos, or about $1,000,000, in the state of Sao Paulo, has startled Brazil.

The series started several months ago with a defalcation of $50,000 in the federal treasury.

Next came a shortage of $100,000 in this city's receipts and Colonel Jose Muniz, chief of the department, was suspended. A smaller shortage in the state treasury of Rio Grande do Sul followed.

The big Sao Paulo case involved several officials who were charged with taking money over a period of years.

Frigid Blast Sends Mercury To 16 Below

City Shivers as New Low Temperature Records Are Established

Surpassing all previous low temperature records this winter, the mercury hit the toboggan and dropped to 16 degrees below zero at 6 o'clock Friday morning.

After rising to 5 degrees below zero Thursday noon, the mercury started its record-breaking descent shortly afterwards when a strong north-west wind swept down the Fox river valley.

By 6 o'clock last evening it had dropped to 9 degrees below, and at 11 o'clock last night it registered 12 degrees below. At 1:30 this morning it had sagged to 15 degrees below and by morning it reached its new low record.

Temperatures recorded on unofficial thermometers in various parts of the city registered from 15 to 22 degrees below zero. Some of those thermometers are owned by residents who live in the outskirts of the city where the homes are swept by icy winds with no protection from nearby homes.

Alcohol was being dispensed in tremendous quantities this morning to automobile owners. Battery service men still report a landslide business.

Relief Promised

The weatherman promises relief from the frigid blast within the next 24 hours. His predictions read as follows: "Increasing cloudiness, snow probable in west portion tonight and Saturday and in east portion late tonight or Saturday; slowly rising temperature."

Snow has been forecast for many sections of the middle-west tonight and Saturday. Winds are shifting to the east and southeast, a good indication that some precipitation will take place.

Friday noon the mercury registered 3 degrees below zero, and at 1 o'clock this afternoon it had risen to 1 degree below.

Give Instructions To Investigators

New Workers Start Familiarizing Themselves With Routes

The three new investigators added to the public relief department were given instructions by Joseph E. Schweitzer, commissioner of public relief, at a meeting at city hall Thursday evening. This morning they started familiarizing themselves with the city map, routes, and the records of the families they are to visit.

Each investigator will be required to visit about 15 families each day, which will result in a visitation to each family on the public relief list once every two weeks. The new workers will make out grocery orders in the home, will check on the consumption of food, the need for clothing, fuel, and medical care, and file detailed reports with their superior. The grocery order will be filled the following morning at the public relief storehouse in the basement of city hall.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., when he returns from Madison tonight, will bring with him the Industrial Commissioner's recommendations for any needed changes in the public relief department. There may have to be further additions to the department in order to secure federal aid, or some plan may be mapped out where the work can be divided efficiently among the present staff members.

POOL UNIT TO MEET

A meeting of the Seymour unit of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool will be held at the city hall at Seymour tonight, according to Herbert Tubbs, secretary. A discussion of the proposed milk strike will take place.

Wisconsin Weather

Increasing cloudiness, snow probable west portion tonight and Saturday, and east portion late tonight or Saturday; slowly rising temperature.

General Weather

Sub-zero temperatures prevail this morning over the entire upper half of the Mississippi Valley and as far south as Kentucky and southern Illinois and Missouri, the lowest temperatures occurring over Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa. Minima of minus 20 degrees were reported from La Crosse, Duluth and Charles City, Ia. Freezing temperatures extend as far south as the Mexican border and almost to the Gulf coast. However, a low pressure area overlying western Canada and extending down over the plains states is causing considerably warmer over that region, although temperatures remain near zero over these regions. Rain or snow has been general over the South because of low pressure over the Gulf region and snow is beginning to fall over South Dakota and Nebraska.

Takes Steps to Halt Sheriff's Sale of Farm

A telegram asking John H. Parnham, president of the Cable-Nelson piano company at South Haven, Mich., to take some action to halt the sheriff's sale Saturday at Prairie du Chien of the 220-acre farm of Otto Schwartz, was sent this morning by W. M. Singler, president of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool and national director of the Farmer's Holiday association. The sale of the farm is scheduled following foreclosure of a judgment note given by Schwartz in payment for a Cable-Nelson piano purchased from Lambert Grincer, a dealer at Lancaster. Schwartz's farm is at Barium in Walworth-co. He is a member of the pool and the holiday group.

Stores to Remain Open 5 Evenings

Merchants Adopt New Schedule to Accommodate Shopping Public

Because of the recent cold snap, Appleton merchants have changed their plans and will keep their stores open evenings, starting Monday. The merchants had originally decided to remain open only next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights.

Shops will remain open until 9 o'clock each evening. On Saturday evening they will close at 6 o'clock to permit employees to spend Christmas eve with their families. This practice has been customary for many years.

The original schedule of keeping stores open only three evenings was adopted by the majority of merchants upon recommendation of the retail division of Appleton Chamber of Commerce. Several merchants, however, concluded yesterday that because the excessive cold weather has been keeping shoppers indoors, it would be better to accommodate them by keeping their shops open every night next week except Saturday.

Play Is Presented By Menasha Students

A one-act play, "For the Love of Pete," was presented by the Play Adventurers of St. Mary high school Menasha, before a joint meeting of the Little Theatre of the Fox River Valley and the Menasha Players of Lawrence theatre Thursday night in the little theatre of Lawrence Memorial chapel.

The cast of characters was as follows: Emma, Erna Lickert; Peter, Konrad Tuchscherer; Kitty, Genevieve Gamsky; Mrs. Smythe, Ethel Lickert; at the welfare station, Rosevisitors at the welfare station, Rosemary Suess, Rita Rechner, Virginia Schommer, Adelle Vandenberg and Cecelia Dengel; Tom, Victor Beck; colored janitor, Vincent Beach. Those who helped behind scenes were Rosemary Sier and Mildred Miron. Mrs. F. Theodore Cloak was director of the play.

Following the program, announcement was made of the next production of the Little Theatre which will be "All Baba and the Forty Thieves." Work will be begun immediately after the holidays and the dates of performances will be announced.

DEATHS

WILLIAM A. BRUCE

William A. Bruce, 64, died Thursday evening at his home, 324 E. South River-st, after a lingering illness. Mr. Bruce, until he became ill, had operated the Bruce Boiler works at Menasha. Prior to that he had been a foreman at the Northern Boiler works in this city for 23 years. Born Aug. 28, 1868 in Stockholm, Sweden, he came to America with his parents at the age of six years, locating at Menominee, Mich. He was married to Miss Emma Holub on June 24, 1890, and had been a resident of Appleton for the past 27 years. He was a member of the Methodist church, the Masonic lodge, Odd Fellows lodge, and Modern Woodmen of America. In the latter organization he held the office of banker. Survivors are his wife, two sons, William R. of Park Falls, and Robert at home; one sister, Mattie Leisen and one brother, Ernest Bruce, Menominee, Mich., and two grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 Monday afternoon at the Wichmann funeral home, with Dr. J. A. Holmes in charge. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery, where the Masons will have charge of the service at the grave. Friends may call at the funeral home from Saturday afternoon until the time of the funeral.

RICHARD RANK

Richard Rank, 33, Chilton, died Friday morning at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Rank, Chilton. He had been ill since Monday. Mr. Rank was born at Brillon and had lived in Chilton about 17 years.

Survivors are the parents; one brother, Frank of Manitowish; a step brother Leslie Jagdfield, Oakfield; three sisters, Mrs. William Young, Omro, Mrs. Veronica Leselyoung, Chilton, Mrs. Herbert Rasmussen, Oshkosh.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning at St. Mary church, Chilton, with the Rev. H. B. Hunck in charge. Interment will be in St. Mary cemetery.

PERSEKE FUNERAL

Funeral service for Mrs. Marie Perseke were held at 1:30 Friday afternoon at the Hoh Funeral home and at 2 o'clock at First English Lutheran church, the Rev. F. C. Rauter officiating. Burial was in Riverside cemetery.

Pall bearers were Arthur Erdman, William Reichel, Edward McGregor, Frank Koch, Fred Rabe and Ervin Frahm.

Reserve Officers Hear Lecture on World War Battle

Milwaukee Major Discusses Russian Defeat at Tannenberg

The battle of Tannenberg, fought Aug. 26 to 31, 1914 between Germany and Russia, was the subject of a lecture last night by Major John F. Ehler, Milwaukee, before the Reserve Officers' association from Oshkosh, Neenah-Menasha and Appleton. The Neenah-Menasha chapter arranged the meeting at North Shore Country club.

Major Ehler opened his talk with a statement that although types of weapons have changed, and that more troops are now used, the general principles of battles often are parallel to those used in battles centuries ago. The major showed by a map the plan of battle at Cannae, fought in 216 B. C.

He then exhibited maps showing disposition of Russian and German troops along the Russo-German frontier shortly after the World war opened. He went on to explain in detail the movements of the Russian army corps and of the Germans, who routed the Russians after five days and won a battle that thereafter all but nullified Russian efforts to invade Germany.

The general principles of the battle were the same as at Cannae centuries before, he pointed out. The major also mentioned the unpreparedness of the Russian troops, the fact that ammunition was defective, and that their methods of communication were so poor. German messages, intercepted messages, and that often various corps were entirely out of communication with others.

He commented on early stages of the western front campaign in which Germany attempted to capture Paris. The general plan of the battle worked well, the major stated, but because certain German generals became glibly with victory almost in their grasp and failed to continue on the offense, the French and English had an opportunity to halt the attack and start a counter movement.

Members of the Appleton chapter of reserve association who attended the meeting were Major A. O. Kuehstede, Capt. A. P. Lagorio of the regular army, and Lieut. Gordon R. McIntyre.

Urges Kindness Toward Children

O h i o Bachelor, 76, "Father" of 47, Tells How He Raised Boys

Cincinnati, O.—Kindness is the best yardstick for raising children, in the opinion of Everett Reese, 76-year-old bachelor who in 25 years has raised 47 children.

He points to his own success as proof of the kindness theory. "Almost all of the boys and girls who have 'graduated' from his home have had a measure of success in life. Reese lives near the village of Shandon on a farm. When his parents were alive they started caring for homeless waifs.

"After my sister, Alice, and I were left alone on the farm I kept on bringing children here," Reese said. "Whenever I fell in love with a homeless child I brought him to the farm, and if he liked it there, he stayed. They usually stayed. Sometimes I took a 'bad' boy against the advice of everyone who knew him. But I generally got along with such children, and some of them turned out to be fine boys."

Reese recruits his children from homes, juvenile courts and institutions for incorrigibles. Once the boy enters the Reese household he is given a pig or a calf to care for. The child gets the proceeds when the animal is sold. Some boys help Reese on his dairy and butter route.

Reese rarely disabuse his trust. Reese prides himself that his fosterchildren are among the best-dressed in the community and says discipline has a minor part in the care of the children.

Some of his "graduates" have met with signal success. But all of them manage at one time or another to return to the Reese household for a "family reunion."

Harry Goldstein Is Adjudged Bankrupt

Harry A. Goldstein, formerly proprietor of Goldy's store on S. Appleton-st, has been adjudged bankrupt by the federal court at Milwaukee and the case has been referred to Charles H. Forward, referee in bankruptcy at Oshkosh, for administration. The first meeting of creditors will be held at 2 p. m. Dec. 28 at the federal building at Oshkosh, when claims will be proved and a trustee appointed.

It Is Said--

That a woman residing on route 1, Menasha, just outside the city limits, called Judge Fred V. Heinemann, chairman of the relief and welfare council, yesterday and gave him a new problem. She said she had two cats in her home, but was finding it difficult at this time to care for them both. They drank a lot of milk which she couldn't afford, because the children needed so much. She wanted to know if the judge didn't know of someone who wanted a 15-pound, healthy tom cat. She said the animal came to her home some time ago and believes it strayed from some Appleton family who had a cottage along the river.

That practically all farmers Thursday suspended wood cutting and other outside activities after the chores were done in the morning, and were content to sit around their stoves. They reported temperatures ranging between 15 and 20 degrees below zero.

Continue Play in Winter Bridge Meet

The semi-monthly play in the winter tournament sponsored by the Appleton Contract Bridge association took place last night at the Elk's club. High score for east and west teams was won by Dr. G. E. Egan and William Roemer, and high score for north and south teams was won by David Smith and John Neller.

Arrange to Draw Trust Fund Cash

Committee Also Votes to Purchase $26,000 Worth of Bonds

Arrangements for transferring of $22,000 from the courthouse trust fund to the general fund, as provided by the county board at its meeting last month, were made at a meeting of the county board finance committee at the courthouse yesterday afternoon. The fund, totalling about $118,000, was built up over a period of three years. In November the supervisors voted to borrow $38,000 from the fund; repaying it over a period of years until 1938.

The board also instructed the finance committee to invest the balance of $75,000 in municipal or government bonds. Yesterday the committee voted to give the banks now holding these trust funds, the first opportunity to sell bonds to the county, in the amount held by each bank. The first transaction was authorized yesterday when the board decided to purchase $24,000 on the town of Maple Grove. Shawano-co. municipal bonds and $2,000 in Liberty bonds from the Seymour State bank.

The securities will be kept in a safety deposit box which the committee will rent at a bank here.

Entries Arrive for 2nd Holiday Lighting Contest

Entries for the second annual Holiday Lighting contest sponsored by the Appleton Post-Crescent began arriving today, indicating a large interest in the movement to make Appleton brilliant during the holiday season. Entries close on Dec. 21 and it is hoped that every person who decorates for the holidays will be an entrant to compete for the twelve prizes offered by the Post-Crescent.

With the ice cathedral as the center of attraction, Appleton should be one of the most brilliantly illuminated cities in the middle west during the holidays. Hundreds of people will be attracted here to see the decorations and the brilliantly lighted ice palace.

Because of the short time left before entries close it is advisable to clip the coupon, printed herewith and mail it at once to the Holiday Lighting Editor of the Post-Crescent. There is no cost attached to entry in the contest and the prizes are decidedly worth your effort.

First Air Mail Plane Landed Four Years Ago

Dec. 15 Was Anniversary Of Opening of Fox Valley Route

Four years ago yesterday, Dec. 15, with a heavy fog hanging over the Fox river valley, the first official air mail plane landed at George A. Whiting airport.

Charles "Speed" Holman, the pilot, completed the trip through the Fox valley under the greatest handicap known to flyers. Today mail planes still arrive in the morning north bound and in the afternoon south bound, but Holman is dead, the victim of a crash several months ago during a speed race.

For several weeks after the line from Milwaukee to Green Bay was opened, the air mail enjoyed success. Then followed a period when it was not used often because of uncertainty of flight. But with another few months' planes arrived and departed regularly, and now days on which the air mail does not arrive are few.

The future of the air mail again is a question. Increased postage for revenue purposes has resulted in less use of the air mail. And as far as Appleton is concerned, the fact that the airport may be abandoned also makes questionable the future of the air mail.

The air mail dispatched from Appleton averages about 135 pounds a month for a year, according to postal officials.

SPENDS HOLIDAYS HERE

Miss Marjorie Jacobson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Jacobson, 727 E. Franklin-st., a student at Ward-Belmont school, Nashville, Tenn., will leave the school today to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents. This is Miss Jacobson's first year at the school.

Police Seek Two Men After Store Robbery

Police here today were seeking two men who yesterday afternoon held up the Murphy Supply company store at Green Bay and escaped with about $100 in cash. The two men tied up the employees. They were described as being young and well-dressed, about five feet, six inches tall of slim build, weighing between 135 and 140 pounds. One wore a blue and the other a gray overcoat.

Dr. Hegner Heads Medical Society

Dr. W. J. Frawley Re-elected Vice President of County Group

Dr. G. T. Hegner was elected president of the Outagamie County Medical society at a meeting held Thursday evening at the Conway hotel. He succeeds Dr. E. F. Mielke. Dr. W. J. Frawley was re-elected vice president and Dr. R. V. Landis, secretary and treasurer.

The Rev. Arthur H. Lord, pastor of St. James church, Milwaukee, addressed the 53 medical men and their wives and friends who attended the meeting. He discussed religion, what it meant to him, and pointed out the opportunity doctors have of aiding their patients morally as well as physically.

A mixed quartet made up of the Misses Helen Mueller and Gertrude Farrell, Carl McKee and George Nixon, sang.

City Hall All Askew! Signs Are Worthless

City hall is all askew. Signs on doors don't mean a thing any more, and you're just as apt to get a plumbing permit from the city treasurer as you are to get a tax receipt from the city engineer. The building inspector is firing the furnace, the plumbing inspector is copying figures, the assistant engineer is running an adding machine, and today the mayor's chair was occupied by the president of the council.

It's "all hands on deck" in city hall these days, and whatever is to be done is done by the first person who looks like a 'leisure gap might be yawning before him. The preparation of tax receipts has enlisted most everybody in the treasurer's, clerk's, and engineer's office, and today when the janitor became ill, the building inspector took over his duties. Who is going to empty the waste baskets and cuspidors tonight is still a question, but it's a cinch that no outside help will be hired. Maybe someone will be named assistant to the building-inspector-janitor, and maybe every office will take a fling at cleaning its own quarters, but it's a surefire bet that city hall will be as presentable tomorrow as it was today.

In the absence of Mayor John Goodland, Jr., W. H. Gmeiner, president of the council, is acting mayor.

Jansen Attends Meet Of Taxpayers' Group

Anton Jansen, Little Chute, vice chairman of the Outagamie-co. board, was at Madison today attending the statewide meeting of taxpayers as the county's representative. Mr. Jansen was sent to Madison in place of Mike Mack, chairman of the board, because Mr. Mack is confined to a hospital at Rochester, Minn., following an operation.

Justifies Dismissal Of 2 Men in Michigan

Lansing, Mich. —(AP)— Joseph A. Baldwin, special assistant attorney general, reported to Attorney General Paul Vorbees today that the dismissal of Joseph F. Cox, dean of agriculture at Michigan State college, and James B. Hasselman, director of publications at the college, was amply justified.

Baldwin, who directed an investigation on behalf of the state board of agriculture following dismissal of Cox and Hasselman, also reported that charges against members of the agricultural board and the college faculty which resulted in a grand jury inquiry were unfounded.

Cabbage Growers Hold Annual Meet Saturday

The annual meeting of the Appleton Cabbage Growers' association will be held at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the courthouse. Phil Bixby is president and Matt Schaefer is secretary of the organization. The officers will make reports, tested seed will be distributed, and results of fertilizer tests will be outlined by Gustav A. Sell, county agent. The association members also will hear reports on activities concerning the freight rate fight, early plants, variety trials and cabbage exhibits.

Government Is Tax Devourer, Says Wheeler

Activities Must be Curtailed, He Tells Optimist Club

Modern government was branded a tax eating monster by F. F. Wheeler, district attorney-elect, in an address at the weekly meeting of Appleton Optimists club at Junction hotel Thursday noon. The speaker presented statistics to show how taxes have mounted in the past years.

Civil service systems were assailed, the speaker pointing out that they tie the hands of a government which is attempting to cut down on expenditures. He said executives elected to office on Nov. 3, with all their pre-election promises, will not be able to reduce tax expenditures, because they are unable to cut the number of civil service employees on the payrolls.

"The theory of representative government can not be equalled anywhere in the world's history, but when the practical application of government is analyzed we find that our representatives are more interested in perpetuating themselves in office rather than keeping their promises to their constituents," he declared.

For "Public Use" Using the dictionary definition of the word tax, the speaker said, it is "a pecuniary burden laid on persons or property for public use." He pointed out, however, that the tax-payer of today is not having the greatest portion of his dollar applied to "public use."

Mr. Wheeler also scored government for entering into competition with business, stating that the taxpayer spends his dollars to set up his own competition. He said government is interfering in private business in hundreds of ways, and is extracting millions of dollars for many unnecessary licenses.

"In 1911, Wisconsin politicians and newspapers were lauding the income tax proposal, declaring that if we had that form of tax, the state would no longer have to extract monies on property," he said. "But we find that the state today is not only extracting millions of dollars on incomes but is still grabbing millions in property taxes."

"Since 1912 when the state income tax was collected, the total amount gathered by the state has increased from $8,161,000 to an estimate of $17,259,000 for 1932. In 1924 it amounted to $9,552,000; and in 1930 the government collected $21,447,000.

State Taxes Mount "Taxes on general property in the state have mounted from $32,610,000 in 1912 to an estimate of $108,000,000 this year. In 1918 it aggregated $50,000,000 and in 1924 it had mounted to $100,000,000. In addition the state inaugurated the surplus tax in 1916 to extract more funds on larger incomes."

Discussing taxes on automobiles, including increasing gas taxes, the speaker said that in 1912 the total amount to only $125,000 compared to an estimate of $25,575,565 in 1932. Comparing the total tax levy in 1912 with the estimate for this year, Mr. Wheeler said it has mounted from $38,898,000 to $173,396,000. In 1930 it aggregated $184,120,000. Analyzing the distribution of tax monies, the speaker said there are 13,000 people on the state government payroll at Madison, and more than 700,000 at Washington, D. C. State employees on the government payroll receive a total of $1,300,000 a month.

Pointing out probable methods of alleviating the situation, he said the state government must decrease its various branches of unnecessary services, and extravagances in high-way building.

Stressing the need for cooperation between taxpayers, the speaker lauded the work of various voters clubs in the city. He said such clubs enable tax ridden people to get together to discuss their problems and troubles.

Declaring that in the last election, voters of the United States eliminated many selfish politicians from office, Mr. Wheeler said that before the depression is over and the country returns to normal, the voters will know more about the functions and methods of government than they ever have before.

The depression has created more interest in government, and people are beginning to see the light, he said. They are learning that to get proper and honest representation they must select the right men and vote correctly.

Prices Stable on Fruit, Vegetable Market This Week

Large Variety of Fresh Produce Being Sold by Appleton Dealers

Fruit and vegetable prices remained fairly stable on Appleton stands during the past week, according to dealers. A few more articles of food have disappeared from the market due to the lateness of the season, but there is still a large variety available.

Vegetable prices are quoted as follows: Brussel sprouts, 25 cents a quart; green beans, 23 cents a pound; wax beans, 15 cents; fresh peas, 10 to 15 cents a pound; carrots, 10 cents a bunch; radishes, 10 cents a bunch; cucumbers, 10 to 15 cents each, and parsley, 10 cents.

Horse radish root still remains at 25 cents a pound; chives, 25 cents a pot; lettuce, 10 cents a bunch; cabbage, 3 cents a pound; head lettuce, 10 to 12 cents a head; celery cabbage, 15 cents; celery, 10 to 15 cents a bunch; mushrooms, 45 cents a pound; tomatoes, 19 cents a pound, and onions, three pounds for 10 cents.

Silver skin onions, 5 cents a pound; beets, 5 cents a pound; alligator pears, 25 cents each; green peppers, 5 and 7 cents each; red peppers, 5 and 7 cents each; sweet potatoes, 5 cents a pound; new potatoes, 15 to 18 cents a peck; vegetables oysters, 10 cents a bunch, and French endives, 45 cents a pound.

The fruit market is quoted as follows: Red grapes, three pounds for 19 cents; bananas, three pounds for 19 cents to three pounds for 25 cents; oranges, 19 to 25 cents a dozen; lemons, 48 cents a dozen; tangerines, 35 to 40 cents a dozen; pears, 39 cents a dozen; grapefruit, 5 to 10 cents each; honeydew melons, 25 cents each; pomegranates, 10 cents, and cranberries, 15 to 18 cents a pound.

Thinks Democrats Won't Continue With LaFollette (Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington — The LaFollette Democrat alignment will not extend to the 1934 senatorial election, Senator Elect F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac predicted here Thursday. The Democratic party in Wisconsin, which is very much invigorated, he said, plans to put up a candidate against Senator Robert M. LaFollette two years hence.

"The Democrats have found that they can win in Wisconsin, so why should we support a Republican from now on?" he asked. Senators LaFollette and John J. Blaine introduced Duffy to his future colleagues on the floor of the senate. The senator-elect has trials, however, for he said: "I know that 600,000 people voted for me in Wisconsin, but I had no idea 300,000 of them would be after me for jobs." He is doing nothing about committee assignments this trip, he said.

SPECIAL COUNSEL FOR THE STATE

The observations of office-holders who are surrendering their positions, and particularly those who, like Attorney-General Reynolds, are quitting voluntarily, are usually worthwhile.

Mr. Reynolds points with criticism at the Wisconsin law which permits the governor to appoint special attorneys to handle litigation in which the state is a party or becomes interested and fix their compensation. He knows such appointments have long been a sinecure in Wisconsin, and without regard to parties or factions, whereby the "big shots" on each side have been compensated for their oratorical efforts and influence by an appointment at "$50 a day for office work and $100 a day outside the office or in court." In this manner a rich client is provided against whom charges may be entered at any time other business falls off. Has anyone ever heard of a governor questioning the bills handed in by his political shipmates? Thus do the people pay for copious amounts of oil with which to keep the political gears smoothly turning.

It is noticeable that these appointments have been made when there was slight pretext for them. When the Milwaukee Road went into receivership a lawyer was appointed who did considerable work, received tens of thousands in fees, but didn't noticeably aid the federal court in operating that receivership. And the state was not even a party to the lawsuit. When the heirs of some wealthy person show a tendency to take a slippery path over the payment of inheritance taxes it is unwise, with a department created and presided over by trained men, to appoint special counsel who may be able but may not be as well trained in that particular field as those already in the employ of the state. Yet in one instance Wisconsin paid such a lawyer a fee of $60,000. He ought to be willing to make keynote speeches in a good many campaigns for that sum.

Such appointments have been made without regard to any request from the department of law of the state. No one has claimed the attorney-general's department was too busy to do the work. Despite the fact that occasionally an advantage is apparent to the state in the appointment of counsel to handle a particular matter, such for instance as the Chicago theft of water from Lake Michigan and because proceedings must be expected to cover a long period of years and as conditions alter, and the personnel in the attorney-general's office changes every few years, the evidence is heavy that the privilege of such appointments has been grossly abused.

Permitting the attorney-general to make the appointment, as suggested by Mr. Reynolds, will not greatly help matters. By far the better plan is to have the state create a position of special counsel to handle the commonwealth's important lawsuits, place him above political removal, attach a sufficient salary to attract the requisite ability, say $10,000 a year, and induce the supreme court, if possible, to make the appointment. In that way the necessary ability will be secured, politics will be eschewed, tens of thousands will be saved to the taxpayer, political manipulations will be avoided, and the state's interests capably protected.

RUSSIA SEEKS RECOGNITION

It is certain that Moscow has high hopes of early recognition by the United States. In addition to Senator Borah who, as chairman of the Senate Foreign relations committee, has been a staunch supporter of this policy, certain Democratic statesmen are believed to be lending a friendly ear to the importunities of those who would establish closer relations with Russia for trade benefits, if for nothing else. The President-elect has declared his purpose of approaching the question with an open mind.

Among the requirements for recognition as laid down by our state department in 1923 was the restoration of private property seized from Americans, the acknowledgment of debts incurred under the former regime and the demand that Russia cease her efforts to spread communist propaganda here.

It should be immaterial to America whether the Soviets try to spread communist doctrines here or not, and would be aside from the unfriendly disposition such a policy shows and the equally unfriendly feeling likely to be aroused here.

Certainly there is nothing on America's horizon to indicate that communism could ever make headway in this country except down a rabbit hole. The strength it displayed in the last election shows how much our people are attracted by the flaming banners of ignorance and violence.

The Soviets would do well to sell communism successfully to the Russian people, and so they will uphold it without a gun at their heads, before they seek a new market for it.

MARINES LEAVING NICARAGUA

It is a matter of satisfaction to learn that the United States government, carrying out a policy announced some time ago, is withdrawing its marines from Nicaragua. Contingents are leaving weekly with every prospect that the evacuation will be completed not later than January 26.

Originally sent into Nicaragua in 1926 at a time of revolution for the purpose of protecting our own and foreign interests and in conformity with the obligations assumed by the United States under treaty, as well as the Monroe doctrine, the marines had no other problem than the protection of neutrals and neutral property from the inevitable catastrophe of war.

This condition, where two local armies were making war according to the accepted rules of warfare, suddenly changed in 1928 after a truce had been declared and a responsible government established, to a struggle between the government and outlaw banditry under the leadership of Augusto Sandino, who engaged in murdering and pillaging the civilian inhabitants without regard for nationality.

It was because of this condition and because of request made by the Nicaraguan government for assistance in maintaining order, that the United States marines began to take an active part in the fighting and to start the work of organizing and training a competent Guardia capable of coping with the situation. This work has been completed and with the presidential election held in November carried out without disorder, the United States government now believes that Nicaragua can take care of herself.

The orderly elements among Nicaragua's nationals, both conservative and liberal, have expressed their appreciation of the services rendered by the United States military forces. Yet throughout Latin America among certain classes there has been much hostile criticism of this procedure as just another example of American imperialism and interference.

WHAT WILL MR. GARNER DO?

Public interest is in a quandary as to what Vice President-elect Garner will do to ward off oblivion, now that he and his wife have announced they will accept no invitations to dine out, except from the White House.

The vice presidency is often considered as a place of retirement, where a man is laid away on a shelf, or to which a troublesome statesman is elected to get him out of the way.

There have been vice presidents who stayed in the limelight either through the possession of a dynamic personality, down-right ability, or unusual propensities for social intercourse. This office certainly was not a place of retirement for Aaron Burr, John C. Calhoun, Tom Marshall, Theodore Roosevelt or Charles C. Daves.

Vice President Curtis, with the assistance of Mrs. Dolly Gann, carried his portfolio to social prominence as the official dinner-out of the administration. He surrounded himself with great dignity, insisted upon the title of Mr. Vice President, instead of the more familiar senatorial "Charley." He presided over the senate with ability and decorum and strove valiantly to ward off the constant stream of fillet mignons and French pastries that threatened to engulf him, in order to preserve his health. In this last effort he was more successful than Vice President Garret Hobart, "man of wealth, popularity and good will," who died in the third year of McKinley's first term due, as was widely believed, to the burdens placed on his digestion from accepting the invitations of too many ambitious hostesses.

Mr. Garner may have in mind some particular role in which he expects to outwit obscurity, but one thing is certain; he does not intend to "dig his grave with his teeth."

REPUTATION

A matter of superior import and the utmost gravity has occurred. A first-class nation, prosperous and able to pay, has refused an installment of about 20 millions owing this country unless certain conditions are granted affecting future payments.

The conduct of France is very aptly compared to that of Germany in 1914 when Bethman-Hollweg snapped his fingers at a treaty protecting Belgium and called a nation's word of honor a "scrap of paper."

We can well afford to lose the 20 million, much better than France can afford a repudiation of her word.

Nor could France have taken a single step so pleasing to the Junkers in Germany. The time may come again when the bridges over the Rhine will be weighted down with tramping armies. And when the usual cry for assistance goes out America will understand how enduring and dependable is national gratitude.

If you mix varnish with the paint used on your walls when you paint the woodwork, it will be the desirable non-glossy surface and still be washable.

IT HAD warmed up considerably as this was written—yeah, from 12 below to four below zero . . . s'wonderful, the recuperative powers of the climate around here . . . no quick changes, y'know, just a nice steady way of getting you used to balmy weather . . . puts lots of pep into you—this Appleton temperature . . . has you hopping all over the place . . . this must be where Gilda Gray first learned HOW . . . if the alarm clocks only worked like the cars do these mornings, how swell it would be . . . the perfect excuse for not getting down to work—'sorry boss, but my alarm clock was frozen up and I didn't wake up until late and then the car wouldn't start' . . . and if that happened to the boss, too, then the excuse wouldn't even be necessary . . .

So France and Belgium decided not to pay up the present installment. Well, and some-how, our memory drifts back several years and we dimly recall the idea of Uncle Sam, brave and dauntless, rushing forward to save bleeding Belgium from the onrushing horde . . . of the now somewhat discredited stories of atrocities to the Belgians and the starving children over there which this country proceeded to save. And then another memory—Joan of Arc's spirit leading on the Allies, General Pershing pausing to say "LaFayette we are here." And how France and Belgium appreciated what this country was doing for them—how the new friendship was sealed and bound, forever, how no sacrifice would be too great.

Perhaps there are economic reasons behind the Franco-Belgian gesture, possibly good ones. But it isn't what they've done so much as HOW they did it that irks.

But there's no use talking about picking a fight with France just now. It's just too danged cold. Besides, a better idea will be to repeal prohibition right away and then refuse to buy French wines. Which would be very jolly for California.

And now that France has established herself as a deadbeat, she may, in the future, enjoy such credit advantages as are generally given to the select group of people who are recognized as non-payers.

The Belgians blamed the Hoover moratorium for their troubles. Which is hardly original. They've been reading too much Democratic campaign literature.

All these unpleasant thoughts bring to mind the gent who wanted a new prohibition law which would bar people from drinking except with meals. Another swell example of lawmaking. You could build up a perfect defense for indulging at any time of the day simply by making up a few sandwiches and having them handy. Nobody can legislate when and what you eat for dinner!

Just Folks

TRICKERY

Along about this time of year
The little hands grow clean,
And back of many a little ear
No shadowy line is seen—
Almost too nice appear to be
The children, every one.
But this explains the mystery:
'Tis Christmas coming on.

Miss Janet promptly after tea
Takes up her spelling-book
And whispers: "Give this test to me,"
With a most entrancing look,
As if she heartily enjoyed
The homework to be done.
A trick by little girls employed,
With Christmas coming on.

At table now she's very still,
Nor does she run away
As soon as she has had her fill.
She chooses now to stay,
As if the things were talking o'er
She really wants to hear;
But that is only one sign more
That Christmas time is near.

Ah, well, 'tis very glad I am
Such little tricks we know,
This daily round of petty sham
Is better than a show.
And I pretend myself that I
Am blind and deaf and dumb,
And do not know the time draws nigh
For Santa Claus to come.

SHOULD CHILDREN TAKE TEA OR COFFEE?

Here is a letter from a girl probably 12 or 13 years old but with the mentality of one 18 or 18. At least she writes a perfect letter, and I believe it requires an I. Q. better than the average to do that.

My Dear Dr. Brady:
Our class had a discussion on the subject of tea and coffee. Our teacher tried to convince us that we should not drink it, but I think she failed.

Would you kindly give your reasons for not wanting children to drink tea or coffee?
The children in our class are between the ages of 12 and 13, and some of them drink it at breakfast time.

If you will prove to them that it is not good for their health I will be very grateful.
Very truly yours,

A cup of coffee contains a fair medicinal dose of caffeine, an alkaloid of the same class as strychnine, morphine, atropine, etc., the caffeine is comparatively nonpoisonous. The purpose for which physicians administer the drug caffeine by mouth or by hypodermic injection is stimulation. It stimulates the heart; it stimulates the cerebrum; it stimulates the spinal cord; it stimulates the kidneys.

A cup of tea contains a small dose of a similar alkaloid called theine. The theine is not used in medicine, its effects are similar in all respects to those of caffeine, tea being somewhat milder than coffee.

It is conceivable that in certain circumstances these beverages or drugs might be beneficial for a child, but that would be a matter for the physician to decide. Certainly the effects of tea or coffee are not desirable for the normal, healthy child. That is why we -nk children under 16 years of age should not take tea or coffee.

If children must have a beverage other than water, soup, milk or any fresh fruit juice in season, cocoa or chocolate is less injurious to them than is tea or coffee. But when a child is given cocoa or chocolate as a beverage the greater amount of milk or cream and the less chocolate or cocoa in the drink the better for health. Often the child who has been spoiled at home will refuse to take plain milk as a beverage in school or elsewhere, but if the milk is flavored with caramel (burnt sugar) or with chocolate or cocoa the neurotically trained youngster will take it without the usual fuss.

Tea and coffee, we said, stimulate the spinal cord. They increase what we call reflex activity, and that, in popular language, means tea or coffee makes you "irritable," "nervous," "twitchy, jumpy, irritable, cranky."

In childhood the kidney function is plenty and it is sheer mischief to stimulate it.
Now is there any sound reason for stimulating the heart and increasing the blood pressure of a normal child.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

What To Teach, What To Teach
I teach general science and the head of my department kindly thought perhaps not wisely allows me to teach what I choose under the heading of health and hygiene. I admire your candor and respect your opinions. What do you advise me to teach high school freshmen? (Miss H. E. H.)

Answer—Candidly I don't think it matters, if the health and hygiene must be just a part of a course in "general science." That's all humbug education, in my opinion.

Dampness Is Healthful
My husband suffers from nasal catarrh. We live on the river and the dampness does seem to make it worse. (P. J. T.)

Answer—No, I am certain dampness has no such influence. Invalids or valetudinarians who are obsessed with the fear of dampness often enjoy improved health after they move to a drier climate. But that, I am convinced, is logically due to the fact that they live outdoors more hours when they're not so afraid of the imaginary evils of dampness and chill.

The Tynymites

By Hal Cochran

THE jester of the court said, "Well, I'm glad that I began to yell when Duncy started spanking me. I might be black and blue."

"It was a lucky thing for me that right away he set me free." The king said, "He was kind. That was the proper thing to do!"

"A little spanking does no harm, but it would fill me with alarm if I thought that you would be hurt. It all was just in fun. 'You always want to start a row with crazy tricks. You're paid back, now. I will not ridicule wee Duncy for what he has done.'"

Then to the jester of the court the king said, "Come, let's have more sport. Amuse our little visitors. Bring laughter, lad, and cheer."

The jester promptly jumped around and suddenly leaped off the ground. The next thing that they knew, he hung upon the chandelier.

"Come down from there," the wee king cried. "You should not take a swinging ride upon a thing like that. Why, you will crash it to the floor."

"You've had enough of fun and play. I guess you can stop for today. Now run along and rest. I will not warn you any more."

And then the king, turned to the bunch and said, "I have a happy hunch. Come out into my courtyard. You will see a thrilling sight."

"The king's fine horses and fine men soon will be on parade again. Whenever they do their drilling, lads, they always do it right."

So, to the courtyard they all went and there a happy time was spent. The royal horses looked just fine and held their heads up high.

The king's guards acted very proud and this amused the Tynymites. All of the Tynymites clapped and cheered as they went marching by.

(The Tynymites rout the dickens dwarfs in the next story.)

'Zebrastones' Give

Town New Industry

Alma Center, Wis.—(P)—Discovery of a peculiar, and attractive rock formation in a quarry near here has created a new industry.

"Zebrastones," as they have been named, because of their unusual striped markings, are to be quarried and marketed by a newly-formed company of Madison, Wis., men.

Colors appearing most often are white, black, light and dark brown. Geologists say the coloring was caused by a solution of iron having been deposited in white sand. Demand for the stones has come largely from builders of rock gardens. Stones that a man can lift have been selling for from 25 cents to a dollar.

The English are much more hardened to adversity than are Americans, says Noel Coward, the English actor-playwright. Maybe Britain's reluctance to pay its war debt to America is just a generous effort to toughen us up a bit.

The Budget and Salaries

Editor Post-Crescent: Because I believe in fair play and in putting the responsibility where it belongs in the matter of our city tax levy, I desire to present here certain facts which will define my stand on the city budget.

As the situation now stands, the school board and the teachers have been made to bear the responsibility in reducing city taxes. They have been made the "goat" this year. When I think of the way the school budget was handled, and what the city council did to it, I wonder who will be the goat next year.

Suppose that I and somebody else were to make a thousand dollar apiece with which to run our business. If I spent two thousands dollars and you spent nine hundred, wouldn't I have a lot of nerve telling you how to run your business? Yet that is what the council has done.

Last year the school board set up its budget, but it did not include any reduction in the teachers' salaries, because the board figured prosperity was just around the corner and there was no need to make any cuts. The board cut its budget about $30,000 just the same. The council cut further, so the board had about $60,000 less to operate on. Be it said to the credit of the school board that they met the situation, figured out many economies and lived within their budget. They stayed $10,000 below it, in fact. This year they had in mind reducing the teachers' salaries when the contracts were renewed for next fall, and they asked for $317,000, which was still less than the council gave them last year.

Now look at our city council during the last year. They made a budget too, and instead of trying to live within it as the school board did, they went more than $150,000 beyond it with expenditures. Now the city employees and the teachers are made the "goats" to pay for the council's poor management. It hardly seems that the council, with a record like that, can consistently sit in authority and tell the board of education how to run its business.

The teachers and city employees have volunteered to have their salaries for the remainder of the fiscal year, and this helps conditions a great deal. I feel it was a mistake to try to go back on the contracts the city made with the teachers. As a city official, I believe this city or any governmental unit should live up to its agreement to the letter, otherwise we set a bad example. There will be a serious comeback if we don't do it. The same thing might happen to paying contracts or anything else. For that reason we should not make the school board, the teacher, the city employee or anybody else the "goat" when we are talking about fair play.

I was chairman of the budget committee last year, when several of us begged that the tax rate be made $20 or $21. We would have gone through the year without any trouble and still have excess money left in the budget. When we made the eighteen dollar tax rate a year ago, we started the year right out "in the red." We are doing the same thing with our eighteen dollar rate this year. We are falling backwards and will come out further behind. Then who will be the "goat" next year?

When the school budget matter came up last year, we should have gotten together with the school board as good business men would do. We should have told them we were in the red and that an analysis should be made to see if there was not some way to help us out. Perhaps the teachers at that time would have been glad to volunteer a cut in salary.

I am not interested in cutting the pay of the teachers receiving $1,600 a year or less, because their expense is much greater than other city employees receiving that amount of salary, and who do not require as much training or find it necessary to keep up the standard of a teacher. Above that, I am in favor of a cut to be worked out by the different boards and commissions. These boards are supposed to be elected and appointed to run their own affairs, and it is up to them to use their best judgment. We should keep them out of the steam roller political class. The country is in a bad situation today account of too much politics. I am not in favor of "before election and after." I want to be just the same all the time. I am only stating my own case and am not interested in any other politician's.

I am only asking fair play. It is up to the public to get the information and study out the problems itself, to find out where our money goes. If they will look into the situation, they will find our school taxes are not the highest. We are in the center of the list and among the lower ones. I want our children, mine and yours, to have the best education in the world. They need it more today than ever before. Warden Lee, of the state penitentiary, says lack of education has put many men behind the bars. He shouts, "Education, education, education. Give your children education."

I am just as much interested in honest low taxes and in seeing that last year's bills are paid as anyone, but I think we ought to commence at home first. Of course the council cut its own salaries last year. In checking over the committee service fees, however, I find that they run greater this year than ever before. We economized in one place, but made it up in another. I am sure the number of committee sessions could have been cut down. It is time we cut out this system and the favoritism by which some of the aldermen receive, a lot more than others. If we want to be truly economical in the council, there should be a fixed basis for committee services, and it should be limited to $300 a year, which is plenty for the work that is done.

British Look For New Deal On Debt Issue

London Times Hopes for Solution of Present World Difficulties

London.—Payment of the $95,500,000 debt installment to the United States was featured in today's newspapers with every indication of relief and satisfaction that an awkward corner had been turned; also with hope of a new deal which would sweep away the existing debt agreement.

Remark that recent correspondence between the United States and Great Britain ended without bitterness, the Times looked forward today to a friendly discussion for "revision of the settlement which was broken down by its own weight."

The newspaper regarded yesterday's payment as "marking the close of the first chapter in the long history of the war debts and the beginning of the second, which must bring the story to an end."

Urging that there must be no delay in entering the next phase, it recalled the difficulties of the present political situation in the United States and appealed to public opinion here to be sympathetic in recognition of the fact America has troubles as well as Great Britain.

It deprecated raking up the past or imputing grasping motives to the American people.

Cooperation Urged

"All that matters now is that the two countries get together and discover how they can cooperate to the best advantage for world trade and international finance," it said.

Andrew W. Mellon, the American ambassador, cancelled a reservation to sail for New York just before the ship left yesterday and it was learned he was remaining over for a conference with Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer. This was regarded in British quarters as an indication of an early debt parity.

It was uncertain whether Mr. Mellon would sail Saturday, the last sailing which would assure his arrival in the United States for Christmas.

A new debt conference was expected to be arranged through the American embassy here and not through further notes to the American government.

Supplementary estimates for $321,420,000 for various departments were presented in the house of commons yesterday and somewhat dampened the optimism of financial quarters which followed Chamberlain's announcement the debt payment would not be made up immediately from current revenue.

The supplementary estimates will be changed against current revenue and it was believed unavoidable that there would be a national deficit next March.

moving by motor truck. Latest rail earnings reports also show substantial gains. More than half of the roads are making larger net earnings now than they did at this time last year. Besides meaning general business improvement, the betterment in the rails spells opportunities for buyers of good railroad bonds.

Another bright spot is the recent gain in automobile production. November weekly figures show successive increases in motor car output, over November of last year, ranging from 20 per cent to 51 per cent. Indications are that December production will show similar gains over December 1931. Although still far below normal the automobile business appears to be definitely on the upgrade. Manufacturers will be careful not to rush production too fast, but rather to gauge the market carefully and fit their output to it. Other encouraging industries are cotton and woolen textiles, rayon and shoes. Cotton mills are now turning out 99 per cent of their normal production of pre-depression years, whereas as back in June and July 1932 their production was only 60 per cent of normal. The rayon industry was operating at only 20 per cent of capacity in July but is now operating close to 100 per cent of capacity. Shoe production is running 60 per cent above the midsummer rate.

Employment Gains Shown

Even though we have passed the Fall peak in employment, and must expect severe unemployment conditions this winter, nevertheless there was a substantial improvement from July to November in the employment situation. October showed a gain of 8 5-10 per cent in the number employed and 10 2-10 per cent in total payrolls over the July 1932 figures. Another indication of improvement is the fact that wage reductions are fewer. November reports only 233 wage cuts against 449 in October. Strikes also decreased, the November total being only 16, which is the lowest monthly total this year. Department of labor figures revealed increases in employment in 69 of the 89 manufacturing industries for October over September. Our November estimates of employment trends reflect the expected seasonal decline but this should prove less than the drop during the October to November period of the past three years.

I cite these gains in employment as indication of gradual business improvement. They should not mislead us into thinking that all is again well with employment. Far from it! There are still about 10,000,000 people out of work. Their savings and resources are largely exhausted. They must be fed, clothed and housed. That is the first duty of the State and of every citizen. This winter will require courage, fortitude, and self-sacrifice. However, the knowledge that this will be the last winter of acute distress, because the fundamental, long-swing trend of business has turned upward, should give new hope and courage to all. Obstacles which seemed insurmountable when business was still on the downgrade, will not appear nearly so formidable as we see business definitely on the upgrade.

Confidence Returning

The financial situation is much improved. Gold supplies have greatly increased. Money rates are at record low levels. Banks are in a highly liquid position with large cash resources. Congress is pledged to a strenuous effort to balance the national budget. New loans to banks by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation are less than the repayments banks are making on the old loans. Even though the war debts, tariffs and foreign exchanges present difficult problems these will be solved. Business recovered from the depression of 1921-22 in the face of European troubles which appeared at that time to be almost insurmountable. Business can again recover if everyone will forget fear, and face the coming year with determination to work and make things better.

Business as registered by the Babsonchart now stands at 13 per cent below a year ago.

'Tent Boy' in Desperate Battle Against Death

Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—Memphis, the home of Jack Doty who spent more than a year in an oven and lived to vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt, now has its "tent boy."

Roy Dale, age 4, of Atoka, Tenn., is the star patient at St. Joseph's hospital here where he was brought severely burned and in a critical condition after he had been trapped by a grass fire at his home.

He was placed under a little tent in which electric lights protect him from draughts and cold. Plastic operations on his seared body, surgeons say, eventually will restore the boy to health.

Eating an apple a day does not keep the doctor away from Roy. He has been eating at least two apples every day since he entered the hospital, but doctors and nurses still surround him.

The skin grafting operations are painful, but Roy is brave. Invariably, when he recovers consciousness after the operations, he asks for another apple.

Roy has for inspiration 30-year-old Jack Doty, whose life was despaired of when he first began treatments for severe burns. Doty spent more than a year on his back here in an oven from the top of which powerful electric lights baked his seared body to withdraw impurities before the application of new skin.

Doctors told him that he probably would not live when they placed him in the oven. But Jack only laughed and proved the doctors wrong when he was released a few weeks ago.

Musical Program at Church Sunday Night

A special musical program will be given at 7:30 next Sunday night at Emmanuel Evangelical church. The program will open with a prayer by the Rev. G. H. Blum, an anthem, "The Light Is Come," and a number by the male chorus, "The Star in the Christmas Sky." Two anthems, "Chime, Bells, Chime," and "I Bring Good Tidings," will be given, after which a mixed quartet composed of Arthur Erdman, Robert Potter, Rosetta Selig, and Cora Zylstra will sing "Watching Over Their Flocks."

Mrs. Lydia Dorman and Lillian Witthuhn will give the obligatory duet to an anthem, "Beyond the Starry Skies," and Rosetta Selig will sing the obligatory solo for the male quartet number, "The Message of Christmas Is Love."

"The Prince of Peace" an anthem, will be sung and a ladies' quartet composed of Miss Selig, Cora Zylstra, Mrs. C. Selig, and Lillian Witthuhn, will give "Joy to the World."

A play, "Feeling the Hurt," will be presented by an intermediate group under the direction of Miss Marguerite Greb.

Girl Scouts Plan to Give Aid to Needy

CHRISTMAS activities of Girl Scouts of Appleton this year will include the distribution of baskets to needy families, the presentation of Christmas programs at various institutions, and caroling for shut-ins and invalids.

The Pine Tree troop visited the city home Thursday night and put on a program of Christmas carols and dance numbers. Dorothy Frank and Elizabeth Catlin danced. Gifts were distributed at the close of the visit.

Clover Leaf troop visited Appleton Orthopedic school Friday noon and presented a program of dances and carols. Gifts were given to the children.

An old-fashioned carolling party composed of members of the Shamrock troop will make a tour of the city by sleigh next Friday, Dec. 23, singing Christmas songs for shut-ins and invalids. Anyone having the name of a shut-in to suggest may call Dorothy Catlin, Girl Scout director.

The other five troops of the city will pack baskets of food for the poor, including toys and candy for the children.

Church Plans for Christmas Parties

The Christmas parties of the church school of All Saints Episcopal church will be held at 7 o'clock next Thursday eve, Dec. 22, at the church. This party will be for the older departments of the school. Miss Linda Hollenbeck's class will present a pageant. Parents and guests are invited.

Instead of receiving gifts from the church school this year, each child will bring a gift which will be labelled and turned over to August Arens and Mrs. Harold Miller of the American Legion and Auxiliary for distribution to the needy for Christmas. Candy and fruit will be given out by the superintendent of the school at the close of the program.

The kindergarten department, under the supervision of Mrs. R. K. Wolter, Miss Maud Harwood, and Mrs. Edna Lore will hold its party at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Dec. 24. Games will be played and Santa Claus will make his annual visit and give fruit and boxes of candy to the children.

409 N. Meade-st. Mrs. Abendroth, Richard Groth, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tredor won the prizes. The club will hold a Christmas party in two weeks with Mrs. Richard Groth, 721 W. Spring-st.

THE NEW MRS. JOUETT SHOUSE

Mrs. Jouett Shouse, above, is the former Mrs. Catherine Filene Dodd, married in her Georgetown, D. C., home to the former chairman of the National Democratic Committee six weeks after his divorce for Mrs. Marian Edward Shouse. Mrs. Shouse's former husband, Alvin E. Dodd, was an executive of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. A curious twist to the Shouse wedding was lent by the fact that Kansas statutes indicate they may be technically guilty of bigamy in that state, which does not allow divorced persons to remarry until six months after their divorces have been granted.

Play Presented at Presbyterian Church

In spite of the cold weather, a fair-sized crowd attended the performance of "Christmas in Finnegan's Flat," Thursday night at Memorial Presbyterian church, the climax of the Christmas tree bazaar sponsored by the Sunday school of the church. Miss Jean Shannon was director of the play.

The cast was letter perfect in lines and all gave creditable performances. Doris Everson, as Biddy Finnegan, was outstanding in her part, and Beatrice Meyer gave a fine performance of Miss Never-smile. Aiden Hessel, as Professor Baton, gave the comic element to the play, and Howard Haterbecker, as Pat Finnegan, was good as the kindly Pat Finnegan. Bobby Johnson, as one of the tenement children who appeared in his pajamas, won the hearts of the audience.

Edwarda Abel, as another of the tenement children at the Christmas party gave a violin selection. Others who took part in the play were Jean Meyer, who substituted for Esther Pollard as Mary Bright; Constance Garrison, Oliver Pollard, Henry Johnson, Edmund Marty, Ellen Marty, Jean Finn, Lillas Ness, Harold Everson, Mary Ann Pollard and James Hensel.

The program closed with the singing of carols, Mrs. E. J. Rohan playing the piano accompaniment. A restaurant supper was served from 5 to 7 o'clock, preceding the play. All kinds of articles to be used on Christmas trees were sold at the various booths at the bazaar.

TEA AT DORMITORY

The last tea this year at Russell Sage dormitory was held from 3:30 to 5:30 Thursday afternoon. Tea was poured by Miss Villa Mueller and Miss Elizabeth Fox. Afternoon teas will be resumed next spring.

Santa Claus Present at Lodge Party

ABOUT 200 Royal Neighbors and juveniles attended the annual Christmas party of the lodge Thursday night at Odd Fellow hall. Santa Claus was present and distributed gifts of candy, pop corn, and toys to the children, and a Christmas tree added to the Christmas atmosphere.

Fifty children took part in the program of songs, recitations, and dances. After the children's program, the adults exchanged gifts. A short business meeting was held, and refreshments were served. Mrs. Lucy Huettner was chairman of the Christmas party.

Mrs. Minnie Christensen was appointed chairman of the January meeting when installation of officers will be held.

John Horton was elected master counselor of John F. Rose chapter, Order of De Molay, at the meeting Thursday night at Masonic temple. He succeeds Alvin Woehler. Leonard Burhans was chosen senior counselor in place of John Horton, and Arthur Downer was reelected junior counselor. Other officers will be appointed within a week, and installation of all officers will take place Jan. 5.

Carl Wettengel gave a travel talk of his trip through Europe, augmented with motion pictures which he took while there.

C. C. Nelson gave a talk on Pythagoras, the Greek philosopher, at the meeting of Knights of Pythias Thursday night at Castle hall. Thirty members were present. Earl Hinze had charge of the lunch.

The Knights and their families have been invited to attend a Christmas party to be given by Pythian Sisters Monday night. Those who plan to attend are to notify Mrs. L. M. Schindler or Mrs. Charles Young.

Pythian Sisters will hold a Christmas party Monday night at Castle hall. Mrs. Charles Young and Mrs. E. E. Cahill will have charge of the kitchen and dining room, and Mrs. L. M. Schindler and Mrs. Fred Schlitz will arrange the program. Each captain will plan the menu for her own table.

Mid-Week Services At Church Next Week

Mid-week services at All Saints Episcopal church will be held next Tuesday and Thursday evening. The celebration of holy communion will be held at 7:15 Tuesday night with Bishop Harwood Sturtevant as celebrant, and again at 9:15 Thursday morning with the rector the Rev. L. D. Utts, as celebrant.

Girls Scouts will meet Monday evening, and the combined choir will meet at 7 o'clock next Friday night for final work on the Christmas music to be given at the mid-night service Christmas eve.

Turkey and Duck Lunch Sat. Night, Stark's Hotel.

Junior, Senior Choirs In Special Service

A special music service will be given by the junior and senior choirs of Memorial Presbyterian church at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. A cantata with speaking parts will be given, and the offering will be taken for missions. Decorations will be appropriate to the Christmas season.

A hamper will be placed in the outer vestibule of the church Sunday for contributions for the needy. Clothing, food, and toys are to be brought for Christmas baskets for the poor.

The classes of Mrs. Mary Hensel and W. A. Fannon will meet at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the church to decorate for the service.

Parties

The Happy Eight club held a Christmas party Thursday night at the home of Mrs. John Kraft, Jr., S. Jefferson-st. Gifts were exchanged and five hundred was played. Prizes were won by Mrs. Joseph Guilfoyle and Miss Margaret Mauthe. The club will meet again Jan. 5 at the home of Mrs. Guilfoyle, S. Jefferson-st.

Mrs. I. Kunzman, 1516 N. Alvin-st., entertained at a Christmas party at her home Thursday afternoon. Dice was played and prizes won by Mrs. J. Thyl, Miss Angeline Deltour, and Mrs. C. Acord.

The Prosperity club held a Christmas party Thursday night at Conway hotel. Gifts were exchanged and prizes were won by Gladys Wirtz and Leone Vogel.

POLICE MEET JACK FROST

Manitowish-69—With the temperature 15 below, Jack Frost got into trouble with police. A motorist who gave that name knocked over a telephone pole.

Davis, Special U.S. Ambassador, Sails Homeward

"Ambassador - at - Large" Brings Information on Great World Issues

New York (AP)—Norman H. Davis, America's "ambassador-at-large," sailed homeward today with information which may alter, at least will affect, this country's future course in the world's three greatest problems—disarmament, the economic situation, and the Manchurian issue.

At about the time he started his westward voyage from Le Havre, France, yesterday, the league of nations committee of 19 dispatched a resolution in the other direction which may have a vital bearing on future relations between the United States and Japan.

This resolution, sent to China and Japan for approval, was reported to include an invitation to the United States to sit in a conciliation commission to settle the Sino-Japanese dispute over Manchuria. Japan already has declared opposition to the scheme but this may not swerve the league.

Although officially in Europe as America's disarmament representative, Davis attended the recent opening rounds of the Manchurian debate at Geneva and he is in a position, at least to advise the United States on what its course should be.

Rates as Statesman

In dealing with the other two problems, this New York banker, who has been a prominent figure in all sorts of world conferences since President Wilson left the field has given the lie to an old saying that "America produces politicians, but Europe produces statesmen."

On this last three months' trip to

What Congress Is Acting Upon Today

Senate—Continues debate on Philippine independence bill. Joint committee on veterans legislation hears Administrator Hines. Judiciary subcommittee continues consideration of prohibition repeal. Economy subcommittee considers federal expenses (executive 10:30 a. m.)

House—Continues consideration interior department appropriations. Agriculture committee continues farm relief hearings.

Europe he succeeded, where Europe's vaunted statesmen failed, in effecting the only tangible strides toward disarmament. Almost single-handed, he brought Germany back into the arms conference—back into the arms conference—French proposals—with a promise of "equal status" for the first time since the war. This, observers say, means inevitable reductions of other powers' armaments since they agreed to its terms.

Davis further has indicated he will have an optimistic report to make to Washington on the chances of the Hoover one-third arms cut plan at the conference set for January.

If the world economic conference planned for London next spring proves a truly representative gathering and opens with a hopeful program, foreign government leaders have agreed it will be due to the preliminary work of Davis this fall.

Almost a stranger in his homeland because of his long absence abroad, Davis probably has had more influence on world affairs than any American with the exception of his "tutor," President Wilson. Dr. James T. Shotwell, an eminent international authority, has called him the greatest diplomat since Benjamin Franklin.

10 Perish, 100 Are Injured in Japanese Fire

Christmas Tree Lights Set Big Tokio Department Store Ablaze

Tokio.—Ten persons were killed and about 100 injured today in a spectacular fire in the big Shirokiya department store.

It originated in Christmas tree lights and spread rapidly through large stocks of celluloid toys. When the blaze had been extinguished, the upper five stories of the building were gutted.

The fire broke out before many customers had arrived but it was estimated 1,000 persons were in the building, of whom 600 or 700—mostly sales girls—were trapped on upper floors at first.

In the panic, a few jumped from the building and were killed. Others suffocated before firemen began a series of spectacular rescues. Hundreds were taken off the balcony of the fifth floor by ladders, ropes and canvas chutes.

Two hundred were huddled in the roof garden while smoke billowed around them when firemen finally arrived and rescued them.

Five army airplanes assisted by dropping rope ladders.

A battalion of troops, with fixed bayonets, held back throngs; pressing fire lines and blocking traffic in the heart of the city for three hours.

In a menagerie on the roof garden, two lions, two bears, and several monkeys were roaring and screaming, adding to the panic. All of them survived since the fire did not penetrate the roof.

The loss was estimated unofficially at about 20,000,000 yen (about $4,000,000).

Japan does not observe Christmas officially but it has become a popular day for exchanging presents. The store was decorated elaborately for the occasion. In Japan as in many European nations, New Year's day is the principal day for gift-giving.

The building, constructed of steel and concrete, is in the heart of the capital's shopping district and was comparatively new.

Girl Scouts Sing Yule Carols to Mrs. Hoover

Washington.—The girl scouts, who have sung Christmas carols to Mrs. Hoover every year she has been in the White House, chose today for this year's carolling, just to make certain she wouldn't miss out through that talked-of-Yuletide trip southward.

In Mrs. Hoover's honor, a gayly decorated Christmas tree was set up in the girl scouts little house, and girl volunteers worked like beavers to give her a sample of the Christmas cheer they will scatter.

The organization has been co-operating with the Red Cross in making clothing for needy children from government cotton. As a special Christmas project, the girls have been making cookies of festive cut and decoration from the federal flour distributed by the Red Cross.

Over the entire country, more than 300,000 of them and their leaders have joined in this work in home kitchens and sewing rooms, and in girl scout little houses. Mrs. Hoover will be given out by army workers.

by the dinner in the afternoon. Supper will be served at 5 o'clock in the evening. The stringed orchestra will furnish special entertainment during that period. In the evening the program will be especially adapted for poor children, toys and candy to be given out by army workers.

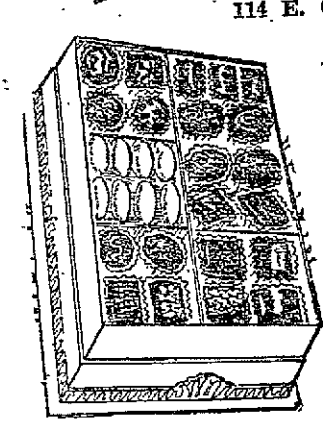

Salvation Army Plans Complete Holiday Program

One of the most complete programs in the history of Salvation Army work in Appleton will be undertaken this year at the Temple on N. Morrison-st. according to Captain H. L. Servais. The program will begin on Saturday evening with special Christmas services and entertainment for members of Sunday school classes.

On Monday, Dec. 26, poor families of the city will be entertained at an all-day program. Approximately 500 are expected to take part in a Christmas dinner and supper in the temple. The program will open with services in the morning, followed

Facials Do Not Cause Face to Fall

BY ELSIE PIERCE

HERE'S a scene, stolen from stranger than fiction, true life. The curtain rises on a dialogue between a salesgirl in a beauty salon and a customer who had just had a manicure and shampoo.

Salesgirl: Your hair looks lovely, Mrs. Jones, and your nails too. Wouldn't you like to have a facial treatment too. Restful and rejuvenating. You'll really look your best then. As a Christmas special we are offering an entire course of six at a reduction.

Customer: Oh, but I never had a facial in my life, and never intend to. Why, they say that once you start, your skin gets used to it and cries for it (like children cry for Castoria). And I really can't afford to have them that steady! Besides, they say that the muscles need that stimulation and support and if they don't get it, they sort of start sagging.

Salesgirl: But, Mrs. Jones, there really is no truth in that rumor. It's just one of those superstitions that gets around somehow, no one knows where they start or why. I wish you would have just one to convince yourself. The skin benefits by the treatment and the increased circulation.

I didn't listen long enough to find out whether Mrs. Jones had a treatment or not. I hope the salesgirl convinced her. For they are very beneficial. The woman who can have one often is fortunate. If they accomplished no more than to completely relax the tension at the back of the neck and rest one's nerves as well as the entire body, they would be well worth while. But they do more. They are actually beneficial to the skin. They quicken the circulation. Tone and brace the muscles. They are refreshing. Help make the eyes sparkle. At the hands of an expert make-up can be blended so deftly and applied so perfectly that one's best features are emphasized and one's less beautiful features minimized. And watching an expert expert make-up to your face you can learn how to follow out this important role at home. A well-trained facial operator will likewise give you instructions for the best method to follow at home in treating your skin. An occasional salon facial supplemented by regular home care in the finest combination in the world for looking truly lovely and young.

At this season, facial treatments are a special boon. What with the social season and its demands, coupled with the shopping season and its enervating influence, the restful facial makes the perfect bridge between a busy shopping day and a full social program for the evening. You go in looking and feeling like sixty, and go out feeling forty years younger and looking it too!

For those interested in learning how to give themselves a complete, perfect facial treatment at home, my "FACIAL RESUME," outlines step by step the movements, necessary preparations and make-up to use. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for this valuable information.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of Appleton Post-Crescent, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

My Neighbor Says—

Before removing a soiled table cloth and napkins look for fruit stains and put camphor on them, then wash the same as any white goods.

SANTA WILL SOON BE HERE

He has in his pack a complete wardrobe for dolls. It's one of the most attractive gifts of the season. What a real surprise for daughter! And this cunning doll's outfit may be made from remnants. Each little garment, perfect in every detail, takes so little material to fashion it. The combination waist and drawers and slip are made of white batiste. The dress of pale blue chambray with the coat and hat of Royal blue flannel. The pajamas are cute of pink sateen with blue trim or of striped percale.

Style No. 856 is designed for dolls of 18, 20, 22, 24 and 26 inches in length. For requirements—see pattern envelope.

It would pay you to send for a copy of our Winter Fashion Book, for it will help you plan your wardrobe. And you will save money in using our low-priced patterns. Book shows large variety of styles for ladies, misses and children, special styles for stouts, embroidery, dress-making articles, etc. Also interesting Xmas suggestions to be made in your spare time.

Price of BOOK 10 cents. Price of PATTERN 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap order carefully.

Kitchens Hum as Christmas Approaches

Home-made confections, like those above add an old-fashioned touch to Christmas, or wrapped in gay holiday paper, they make fitting personal gifts.

Once again the kitchen has become the scene of bustling activity in the preparation of old-fashioned Yuletide goodies—for Christmas will soon be here.

Both for family feasting and for gift baskets, home-made delicacies provide an old-time Christmas flavor. Without them, Christmas morning hardly would seem complete.

If you choose, jars of mincemeat, fruit spiced cakes, puddings and cookies, glasses of jams and marmalades, salted nuts, preserved fruit peels and candies in gay holiday wrappings can be given to friends for they make fitting personal gifts. They're economical also.

Following are recipes for delicious Christmas confections:

German Almond Cookies

1 cup fat 1 teaspoon
2 cups light 1 cup chopped
brown sugar 1/2 teaspoon
3 eggs 1/2 teaspoon
1 teaspoon 1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons 1 cup shredded cinnamon 3/4 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda

Cream the fat and sugar. Add eggs and beat well. Add rest of ingredients. Break off bits of dough and flatten down, 3 inches apart on greased baking sheets. Bake 12 minutes in moderate oven.

Date Bars

3 eggs 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar 1 cup chopped
1 cup pastry 1 cup dates
1 cup flour 1 cup nuts
1 teaspoon 1 teaspoon baking powder vanilla

Beat eggs and add sugar and beat 2 minutes. Add rest of ingredients and pour into shallow greased pan. Bake 25 minutes in moderately slow oven. Cut in bars and roll in confectioner's sugar.

Bettina's Chocolate Brownies

1-3 cup butter 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar 1 cup flour
4 tablespoons 1 cup nuts milk 2 squares choc-
2 eggs olate, melted
1 teaspoon 1/2 teaspoon
vanilla baking powder

Cream the butter and sugar. Add rest of ingredients and beat 2 minutes. Pour into shallow pan lined with waxed paper. Bake 25 minutes in moderately slow oven. Cool and cover with fudge frosting.

Fudge Frosting

1 cup sugar 1/2 teaspoon
1 square 1/2 cup butter chocolate 1/2 teaspoon
1 cup milk vanilla

Mix sugar, chocolate, milk and butter. Boil gently, stirring frequently until soft ball forms when portion is tested in cold water. Set aside 10 minutes. Add vanilla and beat until thick and creamy. Frost brownies. Cut in bars or sticks.

Fig Cookies

1 cup fat 2 teaspoons
1 1/2 cups sugar 1 cinnamon
2 eggs 1 teaspoon
4 tablespoons 1/2 cloves cream 1/2 teaspoon
1 teaspoon 1/2 nutmeg vanilla 1 cup chopped figs

1 teaspoon almond extract
1 cup nuts
3/4 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon soda

Cream the butter and sugar. Add nutmeg, extracts, salt, eggs and cream. Beat 2 minutes. Add rest of ingredients. Shape into roll and chill for several hours. Roll out dough until very thin and cut out star shaped cookies. Bake 12 minutes on greased baking sheets in a moderate oven.

Star Cookies

1 cup butter 1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups sugar 3 eggs
2 teaspoons 2 tablespoons nutmeg cream
1 teaspoon 3/4 cups flour vanilla 1/2 teaspoon
1/2 teaspoon almond extract

Cream the butter and sugar. Add nutmeg, extracts, salt, eggs and cream. Beat 2 minutes. Add rest of ingredients. Shape into roll and chill for several hours. Roll out dough until very thin and cut out star shaped cookies. Bake 12 minutes on greased baking sheets in a moderate oven.

Grand Coup Makes This Bridge Contract Possible

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Most well-played hands are a result of overbidding. If a hand has been bid quite conservatively, it is usually easy to play, and in those cases where problems are presented, the Declarer's course is almost always clear. The good player occasionally indulges in over-bidding, because of his confidence that his ability in the play of the hand will surmount all reasonable obstacles.

In the recent Vanderbilt Cup contest, Mr. Julian Barth and Mr. Walter Malowan reached a contract on seven hearts where they logically should have only bid six. The grand slam was dependent on a finesse and a 3-2 break in trumps, and consequently was far from being a 3-to-1 chance under the old scoring. The finesse was successful, but the trumps did not break, whereupon Mr. Barth proceeded to prove his skill as a player by executing that very rare play, the Grand Coup.

The Story of Sue

By Margery Hale

RUTH followed Joan out of the hospital, down the steps to a taxicab.

"Where is Dr. Raynor's office?" Joan asked Ruth. "Tell the driver, and tell him to step on it. I'm going to think."

Ruth gave the directions. "Mind thinking out loud? I'm curious," she said then.

"Oh, my goodness. I forgot all about Phil parked at the curb! And he probably saw me make a mad dash. Driver, turn around. Quick! Oh hurry!"

The driver swung around. He drew up at the hospital just as Phil's car pulled away.

"Oh my land! This is dreadful. Chase him," Joan demanded. "Catch him."

"The light's red," Ruth reminded her.

"Crash it," Joan said. Then added: "No, don't! But catch him, please, won't you?"

The driver nodded. He waited for the light to change. Then he started to follow the car. But Phil had had the advantage of the light. He was far down the street.

Faster, faster, faster—the taxicab sped on. All of a sudden a shrill whistle made the driver slow up. A policeman was halting him.

"You are breaking the regulation," he said in a formal tone. "Afraid you'll have to come with me to the station."

"But it's a question of life and death—" Joan began.

"Whose death?" the policeman asked.

"Sally Bradley's. The girl who was involved in the double shooting yesterday," Ruth supplied.

"She has to be helped right away. I'm her sister."

The traffic officer examined her face carefully. "You look honest. All right, go ahead, but after this watch the lights."

The taxicab sped on. Faster, faster, faster again.

"That cop won't look again. There isn't one on the rest of the street," the driver explained.

But Phil had turned a corner and was lost.

"But where did he go?" Joan asked. "Oh, I can't help Sally now. I must find him. I must explain."

"What were you going to do?" Ruth asked.

"Get the other lockout from Joe. I bet he has it under some papers or something. If he hasn't I have one just like it at home without initials. All youngsters received the same kind of gifts at that time. I'll have somebody carve the letters on it. It wouldn't have the picture, though."

"But I'll drop you at his office. You'll have to do the pleading act. I'm going to find Phil. He may be at home!"

So it happened that Ruth, all alone, walked into the medical office as Joe Raynor was putting a white garment in his buttonhole to go to his wedding.

"Ruth—I've turned quickly and came forward to meet her.

Charm Is Woman's Most Important Asset In Life

BY DOROTHY DIX

It is announced that one of the leading educational institutions has established a "charm" course in which young women will be taught how to make themselves agreeable to their fellow creatures.

Fine and dandy. A long step forward in education. In imagination I can hear the graduates of the university emitting cheers for their dear old alma mater as they go down the years. For this is the higher education for women that really means something and will get them somewhere. It will give them a staff and a prop to lean on, and a weapon with which to carve out their fortunes. For a smattering of Greek and Latin and higher mathematics and a dab of philosophy are of small value to a girl after she gets out of the schoolroom. But every day in every way as long as she lives she is going to need to know how to put her best foot foremost and sell herself to her public.

DOROTHY DIX And that is what the possession of charm does for a woman. It is a magic with which she conjures, and, if she has that, she lays her spell upon us, and she leads us where she will and makes us eat out of her hand.

More potent than beauty, more effective than grains is that mysterious quality that Barrie described as "that damn charm" when he explained how his lovely little heroine had everybody she knew under her thumb, and all the eligible men in the community trying to marry her. And the consoling thing about it is that while pulchritude and cleverness have to come by Nature and are a gift of the gods charm is an attraction that may be acquired.

Now in its sublimated form the charm that makes, say, a Nippon de L'Enfer, who at 90 still has an irresistible way with her, is composed of a thousand subtle elements. But in its lower brackets the charm that enables a woman to catch a good husband and be elected president of her club and to be always the first person you think of when you are giving a dinner party is, roughly speaking, composed of three things—appearance, personality and adaptability.

All of these can be taught. Begin with appearance, which is the first impression we get of an individual and which attracts or repulses us. It is luck of course, for a girl's fairy godmother to have endowed her with a willowy figure and a peach-es-and-cream complexion and naturally wavy hair, but no woman is under the compulsion nowadays of staying as God made her. If she made her ugly. She can get a synthetic complexion in any drug store that beats Nature's best efforts. She can change her hair color to any hue she desires, and by taking thought to her calories put on or take off curves, at will and acquire the figure that is the answer to every maiden's prayer.

And she can be taught how to dress. More than half of every woman's looks are her clothes. When we think of a woman's beauty of tenor than not we are thinking of the pink chiffon she wore, or a trig tailormade, or a snappy little sport suit. And just as often some woman who has the reputation of being homely is merely frumpy and only the victim of taste that makes

Don't Betray Trust That Children Extend to You

BY ANGELO PATRI

Are you a trustworthy parent? I am not asking if you are truthful and all that. I take for granted that you meet your obligations and that you are sincere in your relationships with your children as well as your neighbors. But do the children feel that they can trust you with their own confidence?

You see sometimes you are short with a child. He comes to you when you are busy. He begins to beat about the bush in the hope of getting on your sunny side. You don't feel like that and you snap at him. "What is it you want, anyway?"

"Nothing, I didn't want anything. I was just telling you."

In your irritation you missed that "just telling you." He wanted to tell you something but he wasn't quite sure of his reception. He felt you out and you snapped. He retreated and held his own counsel. That time he found you untrustworthy, you see. Of course you didn't know that it was important. But he doesn't know that you really were friendly underneath, away underneath, you see.

At another time he told you a secret. It was a very childish secret about a little girl in his class. He rather liked her and he wanted to give her something nice for her birthday and he asked you about it and you promised to help. He began to tell you about it. You enjoyed this first glimpse of his interest in girls. It was so shy and so sweet that you couldn't need to come but are strong in themselves.

No child ever grew up without giving his people some trouble. The trouble is cleared away sooner or later, the child redirected earlier and with greater certainty, if he found an understanding mind and a helping hand ready for him. Anger, fear, selfishness will drive children away from us. Patient understanding, wise guidance, a standard of conduct and a habit of work are what trustworthy parents keep in readiness for the stumbling child. It is not correction that he runs away from but the deaf ear and the closed mind. "I am your father and your mother. There is none to cherish you as I cherish you," holds the most wayward one, if experience prove it to be so.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

physical existence and he should be encouraged and if necessary made to take part in outdoor activities.

If December 17th is the date of your birth, you must guard yourself against becoming "hard-boiled," cynical and distrustful. Life gives us all some difficult spots to traverse, but that is no reason for us to lose sight of the finer things that life offers us and to run around feeling depressed, blue, and carrying a chip on our shoulders. You must make yourself rise above these things. Do that, and you will find yourself well on the way to success for you have abilities and qualities that assure you a worthwhile place in your community. Your sincerity and honesty, your direct and forceful manner, your love of humanity, your desire to be of service to others, these and other qualities make you a man capable of assuming leadership and of acting with foresight and judgment.

You place a great value on friendship. Accordingly, you will receive great benefits from the many fine friends who always will be seeking to help you. You are not yourself a creative person but you do enjoy the company of the beautiful of life. You have an ear for music, a good sense of rhythm, and should be a splendid dancer. Music uplifts you and inspires you to carry on in spite of the troubles that beset you. You do not appeal emotionally to the opposite sex, but there is a certain strength and firmness about you that draws them to you.

Your Birthday

"SAGITTARIUS"

If December 17th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 5 a. m. to 6:30 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:15 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m.

A general feeling of restlessness will prevail on this date. It will seem to affect most every one causing them to be on edge and slightly irritable. Not a good day to make new contacts or to straighten out tangled personal relationships and difficulties. All who have anything to sell will meet with great resistance.

Born on December 17th, the child will have a hasty temper and will be inclined to be emotionally unstable. The trait of jealousy will make an early appearance in his make-up. He will be a difficult child to handle. His will be a mental rather than a Growing Deaf With Head Noises? Try This

If you are growing hard of hearing, suffer from head noises, due to catarrh or fear catarrhal deafness, you should know of the internal medicine which has already brought blessed relief to thousands of catarrh sufferers.

Secure from Schinlz Bros. Co. or your druggist 1 oz. Parmitin (Double Strength). Take this home and add 1/4 pint hot water and a little sugar.

One tablespoonful four times a day should bring quick relief from distressing catarrhal head noises, clogged nostrils, difficult breathing and drooping mucous. All threatened with catarrhal deafness need simple, effective Parmitin. Adv.

Seniors Offer Annual Play This Evening

Production Entitled "Jonesy," Comedy in Three Acts

Menasha—The seniors of the Appleton High School are offering a comedy in three acts, "Jonesy," at 8 o'clock Friday evening. The play is being presented by the senior class of Menasha high school in Butte des Morts auditorium at 8 o'clock Friday evening. Rehearsals, under the direction of Miss Margaret O'Neill, high school dramatic coach, were completed Thursday.

The scene of action in all three acts is the living room of the Henry Jones residence in a medium sized American city and the entire story in the play occurs within slightly more than 24 hours.

Helen Lenz appears in the role of Anne Jones; Blanche Klinker as Mildred Ellis; Jane Bryan as Mrs. Henry Jones; Chester Makowski as a plumber; Edward Waskiewicz as another plumber; Norman Schneider as Henry Jones; George Thompson as Wilbur Jones; Robert Henry as Billy Morgan; Isabelle Schulz as Kate; Janet Judd as Diana Devereaux; Jack Leopold as Stanley Jackson; John O'Machinski as Mr. Silverberg, Lester Arent as a policeman; Ronald Merkle as another policeman; and John Damie as Euclid Williams.

The advertising committee consisted of Emery Terrien, Ervin Springborn, Clement Koslowski and Winifred Anderson; while Paul Theimer, Delores Christensen, Russell Gmeiner, Harvey Held and Harold Smith were in charge of stage management. The business committee included Eleanor Jape, Hugh Gear, John Reimer and Virginia Mack.

Betty Hrubeczy, Marion Flynn, and Sarah Heckrodt were in charge of programs. Ushers will be Earl Tews, Mildred Herman, Marcella Marx, Rocklin Gmeiner, Louise Stinski, Edward Kolashinski, Rose Pomeranka, William Snyder, Emily Pontow and Daniel Beach.

St. Mary Cagers Ready for Oshkosh

Game This Evening Marks Third Conference Tilt of Season

Menasha—After another week of intensive drill, St. Mary high school cagers are ready for a Catholic high school league clash with St. Mary's of Oshkosh in St. Mary's gymnasium here Friday evening. The game will be the third of the season for the Menasha parochial high school aggregation, now credited with one win and one loss in conference competition.

Four members of the St. Mary varsity squad, Krautkramer, Bevers, Gajek and Krause, have been suffering from severe colds during the past few days and will be unable to play Friday evening, but Benny Coopman has been shifted from guard to forward to add offensive strength.

John Oberweiser has recovered from an attack of measles and is the likely choice as Coopman's running mate in the remaining forward position with Riesel in his regular position at center. Munter will perform in one of the guard positions but Coach Dilts' choice for the remaining guard probably will remain in doubt until shortly before the game.

Friday's contest marks the third home appearance for the St. Mary cagers this season.

King Male Quartet to Entertain Students

Menasha—The King male quartet, singers and bell ringers, will entertain Menasha high school students in an assembly program Dec. 20. The performance will include instrumental novelties, quartet vocal selections and costume sketches and is one of a series of fifteen programs arranged for presentation at the high school during the 1932-33 school year.

Mrs. Donald Kommer's Condition Critical

Menasha—The condition of Mrs. Donald Kommer, Racine, Wis., was considered critical at Theda Clark hospital early today. Mrs. Kommer was taken to the hospital Wednesday afternoon after accidentally taking poison at her home.

Tax Revision Brings Puzzle To Democrats

Party Leaders Don't Know Whether to Act Now or Await Extra Term

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Democratic leaders in congress are in a quandary whether to try their hand at tax revision at this session and make an effort to balance the budget now or wait until the extra session, which now seems inevitable.

Opinion is divided because it is largely a question of appraising the political effect, and the Republican brethren are alertly watching the proceedings in preparation for the congressional battle of 1934, when the consequences of a postponement may become a paramount issue.

If the budget is not balanced by new revenues at the present session of congress, the Roosevelt administration will enter upon the first third of its term with a deficit instead of the promised "new deal" in government finances. Secretary Ogden Mills says beer taxes alone will not balance the budget. His statement has perplexed the Democrats, who had hoped that beer revenues would make it unnecessary for them to tackle general tax revision now and that they could plug the holes in the budget later on in 1933 if income tax collections on March 15 proved too small.

Mr. Mills also brings the bad news that for the calendar year 1933 the individual income taxes based on the 1928 law will not amount to more than $160,000,000 and he generally paints a picture of inadequate revenues from direct taxation, coupled with a serious drop in indirect taxes as well.

Some of the Democrats feel it would be bad politics to postpone a vigorous handling of government finances by their party. But others argue that, after all, the Republicans are responsible until March 4 and that the country will not expect anything from the Democrats till after that date.

When Mr. Roosevelt takes office, the Democrats think they can look back on the Republican record with the necessary consternation so that people will regard the tangled finances as a legacy of the Hoover administration.

Democratic Strategy
This line of reasoning means that the Democrats will argue that the fiscal year which runs from July 1, 1933, to July 1, 1934, is the handiwork of the Hoover administration and that the deficit is just too bad and the inadequate tax revenues just too bad, also, but "after all what can the country expect from Republicans?"
The difficulty about this philosophy is that the Republicans will not fail to point out that the Democrats controlled the house of representatives in December, 1932, and that enough senate Republicans supported Mr. Roosevelt in the last election to give the Democrats virtual control of the upper house as well.

Applies for Entry Of Forest Crop Lands

Notice of a public hearing on application for entry of forest crop lands and of a public hearing to be held at the court house at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, Jan. 17, has been made by the state conservation commission. The applicant is J. W. Dunegan of Stevens Point and the tract is estimated to be about 360 acres, located in the town of Grand Chute in sections 4, 5 and 8. The territory is adjacent to county trunk A, known as the school section road, and is part of Center swamp. Mr. Dunegan owns considerable land in that vicinity, it is said, and is turning it over for forest crop lands.

It is that the Republicans will not fail to point out that the Democrats controlled the house of representatives in December, 1932, and that enough senate Republicans supported Mr. Roosevelt in the last election to give the Democrats virtual control of the upper house as well.

If the Democrats do not revise the tax laws in time to be of help in the fiscal year beginning next July, they will enter the congressional campaign of 1934 with the charge that they have not redeemed their promise to put the government's finances on a satisfactory basis.

Back of the Democratic party's hesitation is the knowledge that her taxes imposed by the last session have proved a failure and that high income taxes can no longer be expected to yield much revenue. To broaden the tax base still further is, of course, politically unpopular and the nearest thing to a wide base on income taxes is the indirect tax, which is the reason for the enthusiasm in congress for a beer bill.

If the tax experts could figure out how soon the habits of the people would change from beverages they now drink to beer and what retail outlets could be provided in a given length of time, they would feel more secure about estimating the probable tax revenues that an amended Volstead act would produce.

Much of the opposition to the task of tax revision is that it revives the sales tax, on which the Democratic party split last time. Some Democrats think the principle of a sales tax would have more friends in an extra session, especially if Gov. Roosevelt made it an administration measure.

But the decision what to do about changing the tax laws is worrying the Democrats and it is quite probable they will not have made up their minds about it until the first of the year, by which time more data on returns from present tax sources will be available.

Lawrence Cagers Clash With St. Norbert Five

Large Squad
Gets Chance
To Show WaresOnly One Game Booked
For the Evening; Will Start at 7:30

LAWRENCE college basketball team tonight will discover just how well it has learned what Coach Arthur C. Denney has been trying to teach it for the past couple weeks. The Vikes meet St. Norbert college team at Alexander gymnasium, the game beginning at 7:30. There will be but one game because of a college dance which follows.

Indications are Coach Denney will use between 12 and 15 members of his big squad. Most of the boys are sophomores, however, there being just a sprinkling of upper classmen.

Indications are that Karsten and Davy Jones will start as forwards. Karsten is one of the vets on the team while Jones is a sophomore. Possessed of an uncanny eye for the hoop, Other youngsters who will see action in the front line are William Blum, Appleton, and Ward Rosebush. Rosebush was a member of the squad last season. Big Benny Rafotti, Appleton, gets the first choice for the pivot post because of his height and experience. He probably will be relieved sometime during the game by Bud Marston, Appleton, who lacks experience but has plenty of stamina and a good eye. Sid Feltz, the tallest performer on the squad also is booked for duty.

First selections at the guard posts are, Ashman, small but rugged and fast, and Pfeiffer, New London youth and a sophomore. Ashman also is a soph. Other guard nominees are Mike Gochmayer, Appleton and Bill Weise and Olle Williams.

The margin of victory was seven wins. In the third and last game the Porklets won with a 207 by L. Kleberow. S. Roudelush has the most consistent scores, 183, 183, 183-559.

Belling Drugs hung onto second place with two wins over the Hecker Shoes. The drugs won the first game by one pin with P. Hornke's 188. The Shoes took the second game with a 202 by M. Tornow and 199 by A. Mundinger. In the third game the Drugs won with V. Pelzer's 194.

In the other games the cellar teams battled with the Watts and Volts winning two from the Appleton Specials.

Pitt Quint Opens
Against WildcatsPanther Cagers Will Close Short Invasion at Minneapolis

Chicago, (AP)—Pittsburgh will open its brief invasion of Western conference basketball territory tonight against Northwestern, and will finish it against Minnesota at Minneapolis tomorrow night.

The Panthers have won two out of three games played with Northwestern during the past three seasons, but may find the Wildcats have displayed unexpected strength in their two previous contests this year, ready to even up the count.

In addition to the Pittsburgh-Minnesota match tomorrow night, Marquette will play at Wisconsin. Carleton will attempt to break Iowa's string of three victories. Purdue will meet St. Louis university at LaFayette, Michigan will play Western State Teachers at Kalamazoo, and Illinois will entertain Wabash. Chicago will meet an alumni team.

Michigan, which dropped its first two contests, to Western State Teachers and Michigan State college, found itself last night and defeated Mt. Union, 36 to 27.

Evansville, Ind.—Al Stillman, St. Louis, knocked out Roy Williams, Miami, Fla. (1); Frankie Donnelly, Detroit, fought to a draw with Tony Viviano, St. Louis, (8).

Muncie, Ind.—Willard Brown, Muncie, outpointed Harry Dublin, Chicago, (10).

Aye, Aye, Captains

Basketball has adopted the "captain" idea football has been using during the past two years, and Marquette University's squad has blossomed forth with a set of court leaders. They are Eugene Ronzani, a guard shown above at left, and Francis Zummach, a forward last season who has been made into a guard. Ronzani was captain and star on the Milwaukee school's football squad this season.

Majors Approve Chain System of Baseball Teams

Give Plan Vote of Confidence at Their Final Meeting

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK.—(AP)—Baseball's "chain store" systems will flourish in the future without interference from Keweenaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of the game.

By unanimous vote, major league magnates, closing their annual sessions here yesterday, gave the system a vote of confidence and drastically curbed the weapons with which the commissioner frequently has attacked it.

The magnates ruled, in effect, that player contracts negotiated by two or more clubs of the same "farm system" shall be regarded as independent transactions and in exactly the same light as those negotiated by clubs having no common interest.

An outspoken foe of "chain-store" baseball, Landis heretofore has declined to regard dealings among clubs of the same chain as independent transactions. Under the new rule, he will have no choice. As matters stand now the only curb on further development of the "chain store" idea lies in the rule forbidding any major league organization to hold stock, or have control, directly or indirectly, in more than one club in the same league.

Owners Change Minds
The majors' action, as sudden as it was unexpected, served to demonstrate in striking fashion, the about-face most club owners have made in their attitude toward the "chain store" idea.

Once its only determined backers were Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals. Now virtually every club in the majors has extended its operations into one or more minor leagues. The system now has come to be regarded, rather generally, as of the utmost value to the minors in their fight to keep alive, and an economic necessity, as well, for the majors.

Credit for the new rule, it was generally understood, could be claimed indirectly at least by Fred Bennett, an outfielder of no particular league qualifications. Bennett figured in a "shuttle" from the St. Louis Browns to a Brown farm, Milwaukee of the American association. Landis declared the deal illegal and made Bennett a free agent.

Phil Ball of the Browns, denied the commissioner's jurisdiction and carried a suit to the supreme court. Eventually he was persuaded to drop proceedings but it was understood he exacted a promise from his fellow-magnates that legislation would be adopted to bring about unrestricted player transactions among clubs of the same "chain."

Only one direct step was taken in the general direction of economy during the three-day sessions. That move advanced the player limit date from June 15 to May 15, thus saving each club a month's salary to a number of players who might otherwise be retained until the later date.

A policy of "home rule" was adopted with regard to radio broadcasting in view of the wide difference of opinion prevailing on the question of its effect on attendance. Competing clubs in the world series were given the privilege, if they desire, of selling tickets for single games as well as in three-game strips.

44 Players are Traded by Major League Ball ClubsManagers and Owners Still Hanging Around for Other Deals

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK.—(AP)—The wildest trading season in all baseball history has come down to its climax with the close of the annual major league meetings, but the end of a mighty effort to stir interest in 1933 with new faces in new places is by no means at hand. Loath to go home after three days of wholesale barter, a half dozen magnates of the National and American leagues still haunted the lobbies of the hotels where the tread of aching feet had mingled with the bid, call and asked prices on choice and mediocre talent.

Compared to the activities of their managers, the ponderings of the magnates in solemn conclave on the weighty issues of the day provided only faint sounds heard off stage.

Bill Terry Leads N. L.
Billy Terry, young manager of the New York Giants and ringleader in the National shakedown, still was not content with disposing of almost half his athletes and went to work anew on the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Boston Braves in a three-cornered swap.

This shift involved catcher Shanty Hogan, who would go back to his first major league love, the Braves, for cash and perhaps a player who could be added to Terry's bid to Brooklyn for Dazzy Vance, once the right handed pitching marvel of the league.

Involved in this same transaction was Terry's offer of substitute first baseman Sam Leslie for Johnny Frederick, Brooklyn outfielder, once refused but still alive if the Giants will throw in more collateral. Pending definite decision on this, Brooklyn has virtually closed with Joe Judge for his first base services next season.

Judge has the permission on the Washington Senators to make a deal for himself with the Dodgers only. The only hitch left in this deal is Judge's reported demand of a bonus for signing.

Cubs Seek Southpaw
Meanwhile George, already one of the prime David Harums of the meeting because of his shrewd deal that brought Freddy Lindstrom, crack Giants' outfielder, to the Pirates, stuck to his hotel waiting an answer to his bids for a right handed pitcher aimed at several clubs. Charley Grimm still is dickering for a southpaw-pitcher for the Cubs.

Judge Emil Fuchs and Bill McKechnie of the Braves, waited to hear about the purchase of Hogan, and Joe Cronin, American league counterpart of Bill Terry in free-trade hand dealing, expected an answer from Cleveland on a proposed swap catchers, Roy Spencer for Luke Sewell.

Completion of the final deal last night, in which the irrepressible Cronin, backed by the masterminding of the "Old Fox," Clark Griffith, nabbed Jack Russell, right hand pitcher, and Bruce Conner, substitute first baseman, from Cleveland in exchange for the slugging rookie first sacker, Harley Boss, from Chattanooga, left only the world champion Yankees, of all the 16 major league clubs, without a single deal completed since the close of the 1932 season.

44 Change Berths
In that short time, 44 major league players have changed berths an average of 13 per cent of the entire playing strength of the two leagues on the basis of a 23-player limit for each club.

In addition to this unprecedented turnover, eight minor league players have figured in deals. The Boston Braves purchased Al Wright and Dick Gyselman from the Missions for $60,000 and Bill Walters, a third baseman. The Cincinnati Reds bought Clarence Blair, former Cub infielder, from Los Angeles, and Irving Plummer, outfielder, from Wilkes-Barre. The Giants took pitcher Bill Shore from Portland for cash and Sam Gibson, and shortstop John Ryan from Buffalo for infielder Eddie Marshall. Brooklyn bought Linus Frey, shortstop, from Nashville for Earl Mattingly, a pitcher, and cash, for 1934 delivery. The Senators dealt Harley Boss to Cleveland.

The Giants, although Terry took the team apart, seem to have gained little, while the experts agree that Washington, in three deals, has gained tremendously in the pitching staff and the outfield.

The Senators, prime favorites now to battle the Yankees to a standstill next season, gathered in two of the American league's ranking southpaws, Earl Whitehill from St. Louis, and Wally Stewart from St. Louis, and added new right hand strength in Jack Russell from Cleveland to team with Alvin Crowder and Monte Deaver.

A tremendous punch has been added to the Washington outfield with the return of the old favorite, "Goose" Goslin, from St. Louis along with Fred Schulte, a capable sacker.

On the surface the Senators have given up nothing vital in Sam West and Carl Reynolds, only fair outfielders last season, and Pitchers Fred "Fip" Marberry, Lloyd Brown and Dick Coffman.

The Pirates served notice on the next National league championship race with the acquisition of Freddy Lindstrom to team with the left-handed Waner brothers in the Pirate outfield. The closing day of the meetings, brought the first ray of

The dope bucket was upset proper in last week's Little Nine Conference. At Freedom the villagers defeated the Reedsville champions of last year although it took them two over time periods to turn the trick by a 28 to 22 score. In the Western division Seymour eked out a win in a thrilling game with Kimberly on the latter's court. Kimberly won the Western section championship last year. Both games were tussles from the starting whistle to the close. Freedom's offensive work in the second overtime period was outstanding. Hortonville continued to remain undefeated by winning a one-sided game from Shiocton. Brillion also kept its record clean by defeating Hilbert.

New York Go

New York.—(AP)—Boston's fistic pride, rugged little Sammy Fuller, returns to Madison Square Garden tonight to face the greatest test of his career.

Not only must he tackle one of the greatest welterweights in the business, Jimmy McLarnin, but he must spot the smiling Irishman from Vancouver seven or eight pounds as well.

Still there is beating McLarnin at even weights and the betting fraternity has made his a 2 to 1 favorite over Fuller, who is hardly more than a heavy lightweight.

The match, a 10-round affair, was made at 147 pounds and McLarnin will scale close to that. Fuller, a sensation among the lightweights earlier this year, probably will not tip the beam at more than 139.

Still there is plenty of betting support for the Boston star, by those who recall his sensational conquests of Ray Miller, Billy Wallace and Jack (Kid) Berg. Fuller is a rough and ready article for anybody to tackle, a good puncher with either hand.

New York.—(AP)—Frank Taberski, the 43-year old cue master from Schenectady, N. Y., rates only an outside chance of winning the national pocket billiard championship, but for sheer gameness he takes the honors.

The "grey fox" of Schenectady, N. Y., dropped his fourth game in seven starts last night to Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland but seldom if ever, has a loser staged a more brilliant battle.

Shoved in the hole, when Rudolph ran 39 in the fourteenth inning and took a lead of 106 to 53, Taberski fell back on his famed defensive play. He deliberately lost 43 points through scratches and then came back to carry Rudolph to 34 innings before bowing in defeat 125 to 93.

Berkeley, Calif.—(AP)—With pregame odds favoring the home guard by 2 to 1, the University of California and Georgia Tech hold final practice today for tomorrow's inter-sectional football contest in Memorial Stadium here.

The Georgia Engineers held a long workout in the stadium yesterday and their coach, Bill Alexander, expressed disappointment in their showing. He declared he believed they had let down after the hard game with Georgia which closed the regular season.

One man in each camp appear to be out of the picture. Jim Keefer, Bear halfback, is still suffering with chicken pox and Jack Cannon, Tech line coach, is in bed with flu.

Boxing Commission

Milwaukee.—(AP)—The senate committee which inquired into affairs of the boxing commission disclosed today that it will recommend abolition of the present three-man commission and substitution of a five-man board to serve without pay.

Senators Bernhard Cettelman of Milwaukee and Philip E. Nelson of Superior, members of the committee, said that sweeping economies may be effected with a five-man commission, and that they will suggest such a body to governor-elect A. C. Schmedeman. They proposed also that a 5 per cent tax be imposed on wrestling shows.

Marinette Catholics
Play Little Chute

Lourdes high school cagers of Marinette will invade Little Chute tonight for a game with St. John high school five on the Chute's floor.

The Marinette club is the team that last season beat Little Chute in a sensational battle and ousted the St. John five from the Valley Catholic conference lead. Last week St. John defeated the St. Mary team of Menasha.

A preliminary game at 7:30 will open the evening's program. The St. John second squad will play St. Joseph Orphanage team from Green Bay. The Lourdes-St. John game will start about 8:15.

The Groth Cleaners defeated the Appleton Pure Milk team in the league game 22-18 and the R. and S. Shoes were defeated by the Wood Florists, Oshkosh, 24-19 in a non league game.

The Pure Milk-Groth Cleaners game was a fast, well played contest that kept the fans interested throughout. The first quarter ended with the count 6 and 4 for the Cleaners. At the long rest period they had pushed their margin to 13 and 9.

In the third quarter the Milks scored seven points to four for the Groths and the count was 19 and 16 for the Groths when the rest was called. The game ended 22 and 18 for the Groths. Kunitz led the Cleaners with five buckets.

Wood Florists of Oshkosh caught the R. and S. Shoes last night when they weren't clicking so well and handed them a 24 and 19 defeat. Their second season. The Oshkosh team was composed largely of former Oshkosh high school boys.

Chicago.—(AP)—The Portsmouth Spartans and the Chicago Bears will battle for the National Professional Football title Sunday night without competition from bitter winds and snow, their playoff contest having been transferred from Wrigley Field to the Chicago stadium.

The game was scheduled for Sunday afternoon at the Cubs' baseball park where all Chicago home games have been played, but was shifted to a more comfortable setting because of the condition of the field and zero weather.

The field available is 80 yards long, 20 yards short of the regulation gridiron, but it is expected that no shifting of the ball, to make up the deficit will be made. George (Potsy) Clark, coach of the Spartans, last night suggested that the size of the gridiron be ignored and George Halas, owner of the Bears, was inclined to approve. The question was to be threshed out today.

Preparation of a dirt covering for the stadium floor, caused no extra expense as it already had been planned for a circus which will show next week in the huge building.

CARRIES ALL-BRAN ON EVERY VOYAGE

Seaman Finds This Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Here is an unsolicited letter from Mr. Darragh:
"I have been going to sea for the past fourteen years. Every trip, I underwent severe headaches, nervousness, and sleeplessness. Tried all sorts of remedies, and received only temporary relief.
"So hearing about Kellogg's All-Bran thought I would get a box, which I did. That was six months ago, haven't been without it at home, and when I go to sea a box of Kellogg's All-Bran is always with me."—George D. Darragh, 1914 82nd Avenue, Oakland, California.
Tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things for common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.
The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.
How much pleasanter this is than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. Two tablespoonsfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.
Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Rift Between G. O. P. Chiefs In Washington

Struggle Indicated for Control of Party Organization

Washington—Discord is cropping out in the Republican relations at the capital—evidence of an under surface battle for control of the party organization.

The outspoken feeling of three Republican senators whom Secretary Hyde failed to see yesterday is seen as one of the outward manifestations of the apparently growing rift between the Hoover administration and some Republicans of congress, although the agricultural department head had a ready explanation.

Sensors Smoot of Utah, Carey of Wyoming, and Steiwer of Oregon, waited to see Mr. Hyde almost an hour before departing. Senator Carey said they had made an appointment with the secretary the previous day, adding they were asked to wait and did so until they had to leave for the opening of the senate at noon.

Mr. Hyde explained last night that he was late in getting to the office and others ahead of the senators on his list took over the matter specified for them. He was surprised at any feeling in the matter and emphasized, "I have never refused to see a member of congress."

Several reports of had feeling between Capitol Hill Republicans and the administration are current. The source of this trouble is attributed to appointment and the cool attitude displayed by congressional Republicans toward the president's debt and government regrouping plan.

In the wake of it all come persistent rumors that the president is envisioning another campaign in 1936 and is preparing to keep a grip on the party machine of which, of course, he is the titular head.

Whatever may be the intentions of the president, there are numerous Republican pow wows going on these days. Two former national chairmen, Charles D. Hilles of New York, and Frank Hitchcock of Arizona, have been here recently.

The names of Hitchcock and Senator Moses of New Hampshire, have been linked with the Hoover forces as possible new heads of the party machinery. The names of Vice President Curtis and Senator Watson of Indiana, are heard among the old guard as choices for new national chairman. The "young guard" Republicans of the senate are reputedly looking at Colonel Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, as a leader. and the passage of helium through quartz, it is explained.

Rocks in Parry Sound were measured by this lead system, and were found to be 1,090,000,000,000 year old.

JUST imagine this fruity flavor... oranges and cranberries together! Its name is CRANBERRY ORANGE RELISH—and it's been!

The aristocrat of relishes. Particularly good with all meats, hot or cold. No cooking required. Make it this way—

1 pound Eator Cranberries—3 cups sugar—1 to 1 1/4 oranges. Put cranberries through meat grinder. Pare orange with sharp knife, remove seeds, trim off white membrane (leaving the pulp exposed on the surface). Put rind and pulp through grinder, mix with sugar and berries. Let set a few hours before serving. For future use pour in glasses, cover with paraffin.

We will gladly mail to you free our new Eator Cranberry recipe book.

MONA TOWNSEND, married six months and widowed, inherits her husband's millions providing she does not rewed. Her marriage, arranged by Townsend's lawyer, who was Mona's employer, was a strange affair, leaving her free at the end of a year to become her husband's wife in actuality or secure a divorce. Mona, in love with her husband's nephew, BARRY TOWNSEND, agreed to the marriage when she thought Barry was lost to her. Barry is in South America where he and STEVE SACCARELLI are partners in a diamond mine. Mona's brother, BUD, works for them. LOTTIE CARR, fashion model, is Mona's closest friend.

Mona feels Barry is entitled to a share of his uncle's fortune but there is no legal way for her to arrange this. She employs Lottie as her secretary and companion and they sail for South America. Mona hopes for a reconciliation with Barry and also to find some way to give him a share of the Townsend fortune.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXV

THERE were two first-class passengers on the Miranda. The government official who had canceled the stateroom occupied by Mona and Lottie was represented by another official quartered in the second best stateroom. He was an attractive young chap who said modestly that he was "in textiles." When the Miranda reached his island it developed that he was quite a personage.

A nice old couple taking a belated honeymoon walked about the deck hand in hand. A younger couple, not so amusing or interesting, permitted the entire ship's company to know that they were going south on an important mission, collecting tropical fish for a museum.

The consul's nephew was returning to one of the French islands after what (so a steward confided) had been a fruitless search of New York for an earlier passenger with whom he had fallen in love.

Two middle-aged women, seeking a home where the exchange would make their meager income adequate, were among the passengers. An enthusiastic auto salesman was en route to introduce a newly patented tire lock throughout the islands, a mission scoffed at privately by the ship's officers. The natives, said the officers, would never arouse themselves to the labor of adjusting a spare tire, much less the task of stealing one from another car.

And then there was the ship's doctor, to be found at almost any hour of the day or evening at Lottie's side.

"Dr. Allen isn't the regular ship's doctor," Lottie told Mona the second day out. "This line doesn't use them. They distribute vacation trips to bright boys just out of hospitals. This keeps the ship doctoring business on its toes. The doctors are likely to have a touch of seasickness themselves and have sympathy for the rest of us."

Dr. Allen, it seemed, had much sympathy for Lottie. They strolled the deck, sat for hours over cooling drinks, leaned at the rail in joyous interchange of filopancies. Mona, not quite escaping the difficulties of the voyage, lay back in her deck chair, pale and smiling at them.

Two days out, Cape Hatteras. The Miranda pitched and rolled and pitched again. The gayeties of banjo and lilted songs from the second cabin quieted.

"We haven't dropped them off, have we?" Lottie inquired of the physician, pointing at where the quiet of the tomb reigned. At that moment a bell announcing meal time in the second cabin rang briskly. There was no answering shout. Eating was far from the program of the day.

"All sick," the doctor observed sympathetically. "But by Saturday they'll be out."

Lottie watched the second cabin quarters riding and falling with every patching of the boat. It was like the swaying of a see-saw.

"How do they stand it?" she murmured sympathetically. "It's certainly terrible to be poor!"

"You are one of the few wealthy women I've ever heard say that," Dr. Allen observed.

"So you think I'm wealthy, do you?" Lottie thought aloud she did not say anything.

"If I could get her to marry me," the doctor was musing. "I'd be on sea, street, it takes years - build up a practice."

But he did not persuade Lottie to marry him and on the fourth day ou she reserved her attention for the auto salesman who told her that she really should buy a new car.

Friday the air was warmer and the ship's officers appeared in white. Sunday it was still warmer. The clouds were fleecy and low hung. The turquoise sky seemed almost within reach if one could only stand tiptoe on the topmast. The waters, on which golden seaweed floated, had turned to deep indigo.

Men passengers appeared self-consciously in white linens and sports shoes. One islander wore a pith helmet as he strolled the deck in the middle of the day.

And then on Monday morning an emerald island appeared ahead. An emerald, set in silver sands, floating on the sapphire sea.

Lottie wondered the boys adore the tropics," Mona breathed.

The Miranda docked at St. Thomas and the two girls went ashore to buy a stock of French perfume and fruit.

The doctor drove them to the beach past Lindbergh's Bay where the aviator had made a "happy landing," where they swam in the sapphire water and sat on the silver beach while native boys scrambled up the trees for coconuts.

Then they were off again, just after luncheon. At St. Croix they did not dock but anchored far out in the harbor. Native police swarmed aboard, urging order among the native boatmen who appeared to row the passengers ashore.

"Imagine coming all this way to row ashore in a boat named 'Broadway!'" said Lottie disgust. She and Mona hired "The Sea Gull" and were invited to test a passenger who had taken the boat at St. Thomas. They returned to the ship after dark. The boatmen sang - and charged double fare in lieu of sufficient applause. There was a slight breeze. The boat swayed up and down, its lantern rolling. The quartermaster helped them aboard. A little later dinner, now quaintly tinged with tropic offerings, was served.

St. Mitts, Nevis. Heat and more heat. Native women appeared displaying baskets of guavas for sale. Native boys put on diving exhibitions.

Mona's plan was to proceed to Trinidad and at Port of Spain to inquire for airplane accommodations to the mine. This, she remembered, was the method utilized by Steve and Lottie. But Lottie, had made the trip via Trinidad.

Guadeloupe, Martinique. St. Lucia.

And then came a bombshell. They were seated on deck after dinner, listening to the singing of the second cabin passengers. The steward was serving ices, cool drinks and sandwiches. The radio operator appeared with a message for Lottie which she read, the flickering light of a match held by the physician.

"What do you think?" she exclaimed delightedly. "It's from Sallie! She says a cable and a letter have arrived from Steve!"

"Tell her to send the letter by air mail to Port of Spain and relay the cable," the doctor suggested.

"It may be something we should know," Mona added. "Steve hasn't written much before, has he, Lottie?"

"He hasn't written at all! Maybe the cable is for my birthday!"

She wired to Sallie to open and relay the cable and the answer came the next afternoon. It read:

MISS LOTTIE CARR AT SEA
SALLIE AND AT SEA
SALLIE

In reply Lottie sent second message, reading:

MISS SALLIE JOYCE
-WEST 85TH STREET
NEW YORK CITY WHICH ISLAND - STATEN
WARD'S OR CONEY? LOTTIE

Sallie's answer was extra-gently flippant.

MISS LOTTIE CARR
S. S. MIRANDA AT SEA
WHICH ISLAND? TRY BLACKWELL'S. HOW SHOULD I KNOW WHICH ISLAND?

SALLIE

"We can wire Bud," Mona suggested. She recalled that the boys had a holiday island in the Caribbean. There were literally hundreds of islands, scattered about. How could they find the right one?

They radioed to Bud and received the answer just off Barbados.

MRS. JOHN B. TOWNSEND
S. S. MIRANDA AT SEA
HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

BUD the captain had never heard of Holiday Island, though he had been making the cruise for 20 years. Nor had the first mate heard of it. Aspinwall apparently had not heard of it for it was not mentioned in his manual.

"I imagine," said the engineer, "that it's a new name." He was distressed at his inability to help the ladies. "I'll tell you," he said, "brightening. 'There's a man in Port of Spain who can tell you everything there is to know. I'll get in touch with him.'"

Port of Spain would be reached in the morning. Until then there was nothing for the girls to do but wait with as much patience as they could manage. Mona and Lottie both tried to conceal their restlessness. But they had not left Barbados and something was to occur there which changed their attitude, if not their plans.

Then they were off again, just after luncheon. At St. Croix they did not dock but anchored far out in the harbor. Native police swarmed aboard, urging order among the native boatmen who appeared to row the passengers ashore.

"Imagine coming all this way to row ashore in a boat named 'Broadway!'" said Lottie disgust. She and Mona hired "The Sea Gull" and were invited to test a passenger who had taken the boat at St. Thomas. They returned to the ship after dark. The boatmen sang - and charged double fare in lieu of sufficient applause. There was a slight breeze. The boat swayed up and down, its lantern rolling. The quartermaster helped them aboard. A little later dinner, now quaintly tinged with tropic offerings, was served.

And then came a bombshell. They were seated on deck after dinner, listening to the singing of the second cabin passengers. The steward was serving ices, cool drinks and sandwiches. The radio operator appeared with a message for Lottie which she read, the flickering light of a match held by the physician.

"What do you think?" she exclaimed delightedly. "It's from Sallie! She says a cable and a letter have arrived from Steve!"

"Tell her to send the letter by air mail to Port of Spain and relay the cable," the doctor suggested.

"It may be something we should know," Mona added. "Steve hasn't written much before, has he, Lottie?"

"He hasn't written at all! Maybe the cable is for my birthday!"

She wired to Sallie to open and relay the cable and the answer came the next afternoon. It read:

Mona hopes for a reconciliation with Barry and also to find some way to give him a share of the Townsend fortune.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXV

THERE were two first-class passengers on the Miranda. The government official who had canceled the stateroom occupied by Mona and Lottie was represented by another official quartered in the second best stateroom. He was an attractive young chap who said modestly that he was "in textiles." When the Miranda reached his island it developed that he was quite a personage.

A nice old couple taking a belated honeymoon walked about the deck hand in hand. A younger couple, not so amusing or interesting, permitted the entire ship's company to know that they were going south on an important mission, collecting tropical fish for a museum.

The consul's nephew was returning to one of the French islands after what (so a steward confided) had been a fruitless search of New York for an earlier passenger with whom he had fallen in love.

Two middle-aged women, seeking a home where the exchange would make their meager income adequate, were among the passengers. An enthusiastic auto salesman was en route to introduce a newly patented tire lock throughout the islands, a mission scoffed at privately by the ship's officers. The natives, said the officers, would never arouse themselves to the labor of adjusting a spare tire, much less the task of stealing one from another car.

And then there was the ship's doctor, to be found at almost any hour of the day or evening at Lottie's side.

"Dr. Allen isn't the regular ship's doctor," Lottie told Mona the second day out. "This line doesn't use them. They distribute vacation trips to bright boys just out of hospitals. This keeps the ship doctoring business on its toes. The doctors are likely to have a touch of seasickness themselves and have sympathy for the rest of us."

Dr. Allen, it seemed, had much sympathy for Lottie. They strolled the deck, sat for hours over cooling drinks, leaned at the rail in joyous interchange of filopancies. Mona, not quite escaping the difficulties of the voyage, lay back in her deck chair, pale and smiling at them.

Two days out, Cape Hatteras. The Miranda pitched and rolled and pitched again. The gayeties of banjo and lilted songs from the second cabin quieted.

"We haven't dropped them off, have we?" Lottie inquired of the physician, pointing at where the quiet of the tomb reigned. At that moment a bell announcing meal time in the second cabin rang briskly. There was no answering shout. Eating was far from the program of the day.

"All sick," the doctor observed sympathetically. "But by Saturday they'll be out."

Lottie watched the second cabin quarters riding and falling with every patching of the boat. It was like the swaying of a see-saw.

"How do they stand it?" she murmured sympathetically. "It's certainly terrible to be poor!"

"You are one of the few wealthy women I've ever heard say that," Dr. Allen observed.

"So you think I'm wealthy, do you?" Lottie thought aloud she did not say anything.

"If I could get her to marry me," the doctor was musing. "I'd be on sea, street, it takes years - build up a practice."

But he did not persuade Lottie to marry him and on the fourth day

ou she reserved her attention for the auto salesman who told her that she really should buy a new car.

Friday the air was warmer and the ship's officers appeared in white. Sunday it was still warmer. The clouds were fleecy and low hung. The turquoise sky seemed almost within reach if one could only stand tiptoe on the topmast. The waters, on which golden seaweed floated, had turned to deep indigo.

Men passengers appeared self-consciously in white linens and sports shoes. One islander wore a pith helmet as he strolled the deck in the middle of the day.

And then on Monday morning an emerald island appeared ahead. An emerald, set in silver sands, floating on the sapphire sea.

Lottie wondered the boys adore the tropics," Mona breathed.

The Miranda docked at St. Thomas and the two girls went ashore to buy a stock of French perfume and fruit.

The doctor drove them to the beach past Lindbergh's Bay where the aviator had made a "happy landing," where they swam in the sapphire water and sat on the silver beach while native boys scrambled up the trees for coconuts.

Then they were off again, just after luncheon. At St. Croix they did not dock but anchored far out in the harbor. Native police swarmed aboard, urging order among the native boatmen who appeared to row the passengers ashore.

Seymour Tax Rate Cut to $23 for 1933

Reduction in Other Expenditures Also Made By Council

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Seymour — For the second time in the last two years the city tax rate has been substantially reduced. At a meeting of the common council Tuesday evening, the tax rate for the coming year was set at $23 per thousand assessed valuation. This is a reduction of $4 from the previous rate when it was $27 per thousand.

The reduction has been brought about by a cut of approximately $4,000 from the school fund which has been reduced to $12,000 from $16,000. Other factors which contributed to the tax rate reduction are a decrease in assessed valuation of city property; lower rates for general county taxes, and a decrease on outstanding bonds and interest as well as severe economies in all departments of the city government.

At a meeting of the Seymour Fair and Driving Park association in the city hall Monday night, it was decided by the stockholders that a fair would not be held during 1933 due to general economic conditions. All present officers and directors were reelected for the next year.

A Christmas program will be given in the assembly room of the high school on Thursday evening, Dec. 22 by members of the high school student body and pupils of the grades. Included in the program will be a concert by the high school band, a one act play; numbers by the girls octette and glee clubs and various other numbers by pupils of the various grades.

Women of the Methodist church held a supper in the church parlors Tuesday evening which was well attended.

The unemployed of the city have been given considerable work the past few days in removing the banks of snow on Main street which have been piled up by the severe wind and by the shoveling of walks.

Dr. Louis Sieb of a Chicago hospital has become associated with Dr. Vernon Hittner of this city. He has already taken up his duties in the Hittner office.

Sacred Concert at Church Sunday Night

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London — A sacred concert will be presented at Emanuel Lutheran church at 8 o'clock Sunday evening by the choir of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church of Bowler. The Rev. Walter Nuechterlein has been in charge of rehearsals of this large group of musicians which were heard in Bowler, Tigerton, and Clintonville. They later will make appearances at Antigo, Shawano, Merrill and Wausau. The group appears with 28 in the choir. Half of the numbers will be sung in a capella. Interesting solo, quartet and other part songs will be presented. The soloists include Mrs. Fred Weider, mezzo soprano, and R. D. Hennig, baritone. Members of the male quartet included W. F. Becker, R. D. Hennig, Fred Weider and H. H. Gehner. In the ladies quartet are Mrs. Kropf, Mrs. Weider, Mrs. Wolter and Mrs. Carley.

Council to Act on Budget This Evening

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London — A special meeting of the city council will be held this evening in the council chambers, when the budget will be presented for adoption. This has been under the close scrutiny of the chamber of commerce committee on taxation, with George Ribbany, chairman, the council committee on finance. As a result of these efforts toward a reduction, it is expected that the rate in this city can be brought down to $30 this year. This will mean a saving of approximately $5 on each $1,000 assessed valuation to the taxpayer.

Baseball Bat Strikes Allan Burns in Face

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London — Allan Burns was injured Thursday night as he was watching a softball game in the high school gymnasium when a bat left the hands of a player on the floor and crashed into his face. The bat struck him in the bridge of the nose. Knocked unconscious for a moment, he was taken to a physician's office.

INDOOR BASEBALL

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London — Indoor ball in the high school gymnasium Thursday evening saw the North Side Business men lose to the Plywoods, 9-0. In the second game Ole Christenson's South Siders defeated Bordens, 5-3. The South Siders were held scoreless until the last inning, when the pitching weakened.

Parents Attend School Program

Coffee and Sandwiches Served in Domestic Science Room

New London — Hundreds of parents and friends of grade and high school students braved the cold Thursday to be guests of the Parent Teachers association at their second annual go-to-school day. Teachers of grade schools kept open house throughout the day and aims and objectives of the various subjects taught in the class room were brought out in the recitations.

High school classes were discontinued early in the afternoon, to continue during the evening when parents were present. Though no check was kept on the number of visitors, 150 remained for sandwiches and coffee served in the domestic science rooms by the hostess committee of Parent Teachers association. There were many, however, who visited class rooms who left school early because of the extreme cold, necessitating their presence at home.

At a meeting of the association after classes, plans were announced for the meeting in January and February. At one of the events Judge Henry Graess of Green Bay, will speak. Another speaker secured for the January meeting will be Mrs. Adelaide Raby, Hortonville, a former resident here. Special music will be featured at both of these meetings. The Parent Teachers association also voted to contribute $10 to the fund being raised for Christmas gifts for needy children.

Car, Buggy Crash; Man Badly Injured

George Anderson, 21, Is Taken to Hospital With Fractured Skull

Waupaca — George Anderson, 21, a graduate of Stevens Point State Teachers college, is in a critical condition in Christopherson hospital with a fractured skull which he received about 8 o'clock Thursday night when a sedan driven by Harold Schroeder, operator of the Barnsdall service station, collided with the buggy and team which Anderson was driving. The accident occurred just east of the city limits on highway 54 and 22. Anderson, with his uncle Chris Oyen, who was uninjured was driving home from town, and Schroeder, who was going in the same direction ran into the back of the buggy. Schroeder claimed that he did not see the vehicle.

Anderson was taken to the hospital by David Allen, who was on his way to Manawa. Oyen, who was badly shaken up, was taken to his home.

Diedrick Infant Dies At Bear Creek Home

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Eldor Behn Marries Irngard Steinberg

Fremont — The marriage of Miss Irngard Steinberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinberg, East Bloomfield, and Eldor Behn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Behn, Weyauwega, took place at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. A. E. Schneider performed the ceremony. The attendants were Miss Margaret Greening and Lavern Hansen. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home for the immediate families. The couple will make their home with the groom's parents, Weyauwega.

Mrs. Guy Kinsman, Miss Vernice Behnke, and Mrs. Clara Sherburne won the prizes at the five hundred club held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Arlin Pitt. The next meeting will be held Jan. 3, at the home of Mrs. John Tovey.

The students of the high school department and the intermediate room of the local state graded school, settled over $9 in the candy sale. It will be donated to the needy people in the form of fuel, clothing or food. Application must be made to Principal F. F. Jilison. If no applications are received, the proceeds will be given to the Red Cross, Salvation Army, or to some authorized charitable institution.

A surprise party was given for Miss Magdalene Tank recently by the members of the West Bloomfield church choir, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. Cards were the diversion of the evening. Honors were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Koehler, Miss Rena Radichel, A. R. Dierks and Miss Evelyn Radichel.

E. A. Lautenbach is ill at his home with pneumonia.

New Officers of Lodge Named at Meeting in Village of Shiocton

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Shiocton — At the regular meeting of the Rebekah lodge Thursday evening the following officers were elected for the coming year: Noble grand, Elizabeth Laird; vice grand, Bertha Spehr; financial secretary, Susie Whitthun; recording secretary, Celia Oaks; deputy, Esma Laird; staff captain, Rose Colburn, and treasurer, Pauline Wilcox.

Other officers will be appointed at a later meeting. Members of St. Ann's society met at the Sandhuylk home Thursday afternoon and the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. G. M. LeCrox; vice president, Mrs. Edward Rueden; treasurer, Mrs. Elsie Kuether; secretary, Mrs. Will Lettman. Following the election a lunch was served. Miss Edith Palmer entertained as her guests Sunday at dinner Miss Dorothy Hetzer, Lester O'Neill and Walter Sohrweide, New London.

The Melody Makers club met for rehearsal Monday evening at the home of Miss Joyce Ames. Hymns were practiced for next Sunday's service at the Congregational church and also for the Christmas program.

A short business meeting followed after which the members covered boxes for Christmas candy.

The next meeting will be at the Brownson home and the members expect to pack the boxes for delivery.

Operetta to be Given At Bear Creek School

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Bear Creek — The operetta "When Christmas Comes" will be given by the Bear Creek graded school on the evening of Dec. 20. The public is invited.

On Thursday the local Bear Creek high school team will meet the Shiocton team on the local floor.

The Bear Creek basket ball squad lost another game at Pulaski Friday night. The score was 27 to 9.

The high school play "Blundering Billy" will be given in the local opera house soon after the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mullarky and son Roy of the town of Bear Creek were in Appleton Monday, called there by the illness of Miss Eleanor Mullarky. The latter, second grade teacher in the McKinley school, was stricken with diphtheria on Friday. Her condition is reported to be much improved.

THE LEADER CAN ACCOMPLISH WHAT OTHERS DARE NOT TRY

TOMORROW CHEVROLET PRESENTS A NEW SIX

Longer • Larger • Faster • Smoother • New in Styling • More Economical • And Featuring Fisher No-Draft Ventilation

TOMORROW will be Chevrolet Day throughout America. And the new car that millions have been watching and waiting for—the latest product of the world's leading builder of automobiles—will go on display: the New Chevrolet Six—at a new scale of low prices. Front, side, rear—inside, outside—everything about this new car is advanced, improved, exciting. Longer wheelbase makes it the biggest automobile in today's low-price field. The latest principle of car design, "Aer-Stream" styling, gives it a totally different, ultra-modern appearance. The new Fisher bodies are larger, wider—faultlessly streamlined—swung lower to the road—and offer the first basic improvement in travel comfort in over ten years: Fisher No-Draft Ventilation. Chevrolet performance in every gear is faster, flashier, more brilliant. The time-proved six-cylinder engine is more powerful as well as more economical. Improved Free Wheeling is combined with a "silent second" Syncro-Mesh gear-shift. Chevrolet engineers have developed a remarkable new invention that wins a complete victory over vibration: The Cushion-Balanced Engine Mounting. And as far as prices are concerned, several models now sell at the lowest figures in Chevrolet history. Chevrolet is able to do all this because Chevrolet has the advantage of being the world's largest builder of cars for 4 out of the past 6 years. Chevrolet builds cars in greater volume—buys materials in greater quantities—does everything on a bigger, more economical scale. Hence, Chevrolet is in a position to provide a better car at a better price than could possibly issue from any other source. The leader can accomplish what others dare not try! CHEVROLET MOTOR COMPANY, DETROIT, MICHIGAN

(Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York—A few trickles of selling seeped through the stock market today, but losses were mostly fractional. The list closed with an easy tone. Transfers aggregated 800,000 shares.

After holding fairly well through the morning, the list appeared to be dragged down around midday by heaviness of U. S. Steel Preferred. The list held fairly well through the afternoon, however, and closed a little above the lowest. Oils and coppers eased somewhat.

U. S. Steel Preferred lost a couple of points, but the common finished only a fraction lower. Losses of around a point appeared in Allied Chemical, Eastman, Anaconda and Standard of N. J., and fractional declines in American Telephone, Santa Fe, New York Central, Union Pacific, Tobaccos were steady to firm, and Canadian Pacific pushed up nearly a point. Chrysler, Pennsylvania, and General Electric were about steady, and Consolidated Gas rose 1/2.

Brokerage quarters continued to reflect considerable bullishness, chiefly on the theory that the market was well sold out, and that the final weeks of the year often see an upturn in shares. The public, however, has shown little inclination to re-enter the market, although a trickle of "good" buying is reported here and there by some houses.

Oils again reflected the slashing of mid-continent crude prices. Copper paid little attention to a slightly firmer tone in the metal in the export market. Prices had recently slipped back to their record lows, following failure of the international conference of producers in New York.

Narrow Changes In Curb Values

Market Moves in Routine Channels With Little Interest in Trading

BY JOHN L. COOLEY

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York—Curb market trading was largely of a routine nature today and price changes on the whole were narrow.

Oil shares again reacted, although the group was not particularly active. This week's reductions in crude prices, it is pointed out, will be reflected in earnings and may also mean a tighter competitive situation. Brokers recall that oil shares were purchased in some volume several months ago when the industry seemed to be improving. Standard of Indiana lost a point and Gulf was down about as much. Utilities dragged along in uninteresting fashion. Both Electric Bond and Share and American Gas hung closely to yesterday's final quotations and neither was especially active.

In specialties, further selling had an adverse effect on Swift International. Cord turned over briskly, showing a small net loss on many of the transfers. Novadel Agente traded at a small concession, while Aluminum of America was unable to hold an opening advance. Newmont Mining eased slightly.

Wall Street Briefs

New York—The Analyst says there are little change in the average level of business activity in November from October. The publication's preliminary index for last month is 59.9 compared with 60 for October and 60.4 for September. The advance over the July low is about 16 per cent. Records going back to 1920, it says, show that "the initial rebound from the lowest depths of several past depressions have been followed by several months of hesitation before the general upswing was resumed." However, the first recovery from the second post-war depression of 1924-25 "was followed not by a resumption of the recovery but by recurring relapses which prolonged the period of severe depression for a period of more than two years."

Standard Statistics Co. says gross revenues of class one railroads may show a decline in the first 1933 quarter of no more than 7 per cent from the 1932 period. Net operating income in the first quarter, however, "could show a decline of about 18 per cent, chiefly because the 10 per cent wage reduction was not in effect in January, 1932."

Heavy construction contracts for the week ended Dec. 12 totaled $16,997,000, reports "Engineering News-Record." This was slightly under the four-week running average of $20,476,000.

The Railroad Credit corporation at its December meeting approved loans aggregating $9,190,255 to 13 roads.

Wheat Values in Sharp Decline in Chicago Trading

All Time Low Records Reported at Winnipeg And Liverpool

BY JOHN F. BOUGHAN

(Associated Press Market Editor)

Chicago—(P)—Knifing of wheat values by countries with depreciated currency led to a general smash of prices today and to all-time low records at Winnipeg and Liverpool.

Wheat quotations here were pulled down severely by the action of foreign markets, but were affected only about half as much as those in Canada and Great Britain. Unusually brisk demand for immediate delivery in Chicago and at all domestic markets served as a curb to selling of future deliveries.

Corn showed decided resistance to selling pressure, owing in part to buying of corn against sales of wheat. Corn prices dropped fractionally below the finish of the previous day, but more than recovered the losses later. Country offerings to arrive were again small and shipping demand relatively slow. At one stage, there was considerable buying of rye against sales of corn.

After a maximum setback of about 2 cents a bushel, Chicago wheat futures closed unsettled, 1/2 to 1 1/2 under yesterday's finish, Dec. 54 1/2, May 58 1/2; corn at 1/2 to 1/4 advance, Dec. 63 1/2, May 4 1/2; oats 1/2 to 1/4 up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 1/2 cents.

Grain Notes

Chicago—Marked resistance of the local wheat market to pressure lately has led a number of LaSalle-street traders to express the opinion that it has reached a position where it is almost shock-proof as far as bearish news is concerned. At the same time wheat-traders are extremely cautious, evidently being content to watch world developments during the pre-holiday lull.

New record lows were established for wheat at Winnipeg yesterday as the result of unwinding of spreads between Chicago and the Canadian markets. The Winnipeg exchange also has been under additional pressure for several days, due to liquidation of storage tickets by Canadian farmers.

Canadian export business shows signs of improvement. South American shippers seem willing to hold their grain and thus prevents cut-rate competition. Most of the Canadian business of late has been at the Pacific coast. Canada has also been selling wheat to Greece, which previously bought of the United States.

Since the close of navigation, there has been little demand for corn and country offerings have been extremely light. Sub-zero weather probably will result in large stocks of corn being fed in the farms.

Prospects that 3.2 per cent beer may be legalized received scant attention.

Live Hog Prices In Brisk Advance

Cattle Shipments Curtailed With Ample Stock Remaining on Hand

Chicago—(P)—Live hog prices rose 10 to 15 cents today on the strength of curtailed receipts. Unfavorable news from the wholesale pork market did not affect the action.

The run was 3,000 under advance estimates, half of which went to packing houses. Only 10,000 head plus 4,000 state holdovers were available for the open market. Light lights were in good demand and led the advance, shippers and killers running them up swiftly to 10-15 cents above yesterday.

Around the market circle, receipts were light and prices ranged from 5 cents to 25 cents higher. East St. Louis and Indianapolis reported the biggest gains. Wholesale pork is selling at the lowest prices in 40 years and coolers are glutted with choice cuts.

The slim run of 1,000 cattle was welcomed by traders who still had state stock to sell. Buyers were slow swinging into action, but no further price cuts were demanded. However, some of the beef was yet unsold and probably will be carried into next week. Commission men are hoping for sharply reduced runs the first of the week.

Another sharp cut in live mutton receipts spurred commission men to demand higher prices. Packers had only a single car of lambs direct, but fought the advances. The market ruled firm to strong.

Kaukauna Five Whips Alumni Squad, 14 to 10

Victory Marks First of Season for Coach Little's Team

Kaukauna — Kaukauna high school's basketball team copped its first victory of the season Thursday evening, defeating the alumni 14 to 10. Trailing 4 to 3 at the first quarter, the Littlemen stepped out to take a 9 to 4 lead at the half. At the end of the third quarter their margin had dwindled to 12 to 8. Coach Little's team, opened the scoring with a side shot in the first quarter to put the alumni ahead. Vils was given a gift shot when Dix failed to report, but Koch added another side shot to set the alumni ahead 4 to 1. Near the end of the period Stannelle shot a short one and the high school cagers trailed 4 to 3 as the quarter ended. Stannelle's free toss tied the score shortly after the start of the second period.

A one handed toss by Vils sent the high school team ahead 7 to 5 and Grogan tipped another shot a little later to give the high school a 9 to 4 lead at halftime. In the third quarter the high school aggregation faded and their opponents dropped two field goals. Sager and Van Lieshout counted for the alumni, but Vils added a gift toss and a basket to leave the count at 12 to 8 at the end of the third period.

Two field goals were the only counts chalked up in the final quarter, each team scoring a field goal. Stannelle counted for the high school and Main tipped a side shot for the veterans. Coach Paul Little's team showed promise, but was unable to stop the rushing alumni quint, which repeatedly missed shots.

Kaukauna — City league bowlers will occupy Hilgenberg alleys next Monday evening. First round matches show Kalpa Bakers versus Service Laundries and Thilmany's Bag versus Electricians at 7 o'clock. At 8 o'clock U. S. Engineers engage Nittingales and Bayorgsons clash with the Bankers.

COMPLETE FLOODING

Kaukauna — Workmen of the south road district Thursday completed flooding Nicolet school field for an ice rink. This makes two rinks available to skaters, the Park school field having been flooded last week.

A Good Drive

A good mid-winter drive brings delight to Mrs. James W. Walker (above), wife of New York's former mayor. She is enjoying a cold weather holiday at Miami Beach, Fla., while her husband—who retired under fire as Chief Executive of the nation's largest city—tours Europe.

Social Items

Kaukauna — Fraternal Order of Eagles, Aerie No. 1416, met Thursday evening in their clubrooms on Wisconsin-ave. Lunch followed the business meeting.

Trinity Dramatic club of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church will meet next Tuesday evening in their Lutheran school house. A Christmas party will follow the business meeting.

Catholic Women's Study club held a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Ray McCarty on Catherine-st. Thursday evening. There was assembly singing of Christmas songs, bridge, and a luncheon.

Mrs. John C. Schuph entertained the Neighborhood Scharkopf club at a Christmas party at her home on Desnoyer-st. Thursday afternoon. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Charles Seebach and Mrs. Harry Treptow. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Treptow.

Christmas Seals are Available to Pupils

Kaukauna — Christmas seals were being placed for disposal in all public and parochial schools today, according to Mrs. Olin G. Dryer, health chairman of the Kaukauna Women's club, which is sponsoring the drive. There has been $265 reported in proceeds so far, Mrs. Dryer said.

BENCHES AT RINKS

Kaukauna — Park benches will be moved to the two ice rinks here by street department workmen, the work being authorized by the

Coach Spears to Talk at Banquet

High School Gridders Receive Letters Next Monday Evening

Kaukauna — With Dr. Clarence Spears, football mentor at the University of Wisconsin, as principal speaker, the high school football team will hold its annual banquet Monday evening in Hotel Kaukauna. Included in the speaking program with Dr. Spears will be Howard "Cub" Buck, Neenah, former Packer grid star; James E. Ca van a high school principal; and Coach Paul E. Little.

The Kaw aggregation was the first to go undefeated in the past 20 years of the school's history. It was deprived of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference title after it had unknowingly used an ineligible player in five games. The games were forfeited and Shawano and East De Pere were awarded the title as co-champions.

Members of the squad were Captain William Kuchelmeister, A. McCormick, J. Judae, J. Van Able, J. Hilgenberg, D. Rodell, R. Wurdinger, T. Drissen, L. Grebe, S. Dix, F. Kuchelmeister, C. Eshler, K. Towles, M. Heinz, W. Nagel, E. Schemm, K. Schuler, G. Block, M. Rademacher, A. Maue, F. Van Dyke, G. Vils, H. Reichel, H. Treptow, C. Simon, and C. Fleming. Of this squad there will be nine players lost.

Final Rites for Jacob Nickles

Services Held at Church For Pioneer Resident Of Kaukauna

Kaukauna — Funeral services for Jacob Nickles, 81, who died early Tuesday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. Hildebrandt, Oviatt-st., were held at 1:30 Thursday afternoon at the home and at 2 o'clock at Immanuel Reformed church, with the Rev. John Scheib in charge. Interment was in Union cemetery.

Kaukauna — Collection of taxes will be started here Monday, Dec. 26, according to Louis C. Wolf, city clerk. Payments can be made at the rate of $30 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation to Mary Hooyman, city treasurer. The treasurer will be in her office in the municipal building after the taxpaying period opens.

Ice Companies to Start on Harvest

River Now Frozen to Thickness of Approximately 13 Inches

Kaukauna — Sub-zero weather has caused ice companies to make preparations for the annual ice harvest. The Busch and Flynn Ice Co. expects to start its harvest this week if the weather continues cold. The ice on the Fox river, where the company will harvest its supply, already has frozen to a thickness of 13 inches.

About 16 men will be employed during the harvest, according to William Flynn. The company will cut a stretch of ice on the north bank of the Fox river adjacent to Rhinelanders: five daughters, Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. A. Hildebrandt, Kaukauna; Mrs. Richard Cornell, Milwaukee; Mrs. Peter Nettekoven, Kaukauna; Mrs. Ben Vande Yacht, Dundas; one sister, Mrs. Fred Wolf, Elwood, Ind., and 32 grandchildren.

FORD COKE

PRODUCT OF THE FORD MOTOR COMPANY

REMEMBER, in buying fuel, you pay the same price for the part which is waste as for the carbon, which is the effective heat-producing element. Then burn the fuel with a high amount of carbon, Ford Coke.

Ford Coke is practically all carbon; concentrated heat! It contains very little ash, no gas, no soot, no smoke, no clinkers. Your whole fuel dollar buys comfort. In addition to being thrifty, it is clean and wonderfully efficient. Every shovelful is uniform, its high quality standardized by the careful Ford coking process. This process eliminates all waste elements, leaving only pure carbon and a minimum of clean, fluffy ash. As a result, Ford Coke is light, long-burning, easy to bank. It makes your furnace the least of your worries, simplifies housekeeping, unburdens your budget.

Plan now to see less of your cellar. Keep your bins always well supplied with Ford Coke . . . and enjoy healthful, carefree comfort all winter long.
